BOLD ROBBERS.

Thirteen Hundred Dollars and Other Boodle Captured.

A GROCERY STORE-KEEPER SHOT.

Three Masked Men Terrorize the Inhabitants of the Four-Mile House.

Yesterday evening two robberies and a bold attempt to rob took place within a short time of one another, just outside of the city limits. The two robberies were evidently done by the same gang but the attempt was an affair by itself, and a very entertaining one, too.

It took place at the corner of Denver avenue and Washington street, where the combination meat market and grocery store of Albert Luer and T. Nielson is situated. At a little after 8 o'clock the two partners were busy about the store, Luer on a high stool at the books in the large room, and Nielson toward the front some distance away. Suddenly Luer heard the loud barking of his dog outside. Then the door burst open and three men entered. Their hats were drawn down over their foreheads and around their faces some kind of black cloth was wrapped, concealing the lower part. They were not dressed like tramps, and the bold, systematic way in which they advanced to the job in hand showed that they were not amateurs at the business they had undertaken. Before either of the partners could understand what was taking place each was covered by a revolver. One of the three men, the shortest one, stood in front of Nielson aiming a revolver at his head. Another stepped around to where Luer was sitting and leveled his gun so close that it almost touched his face. The third stood behind Luer, covering him in that direction.

"Hands up!" cried the man who faced Luer. "Put up your hands quick!"

It took the partners an instant to take in the situation, and then Luer, startled into profanity, cried out in a loud voice: "Well, not by a d—d sight," and jumped down from the stool.

At the same instant Nielson sprang at the man in front of him. He fired and the bullet passed through Nielson's uplifted arm, inflicting a serious but not dangerous flesh wound. It coursed on up and cut the scalp. The man facing Luer hearing the report turned with a swift motion and fired at Nielson and then like a flash presented his gun again in Luer's face.

Nobody spoke a word, but neither of the two partners flinched. The second bullet had grazed Nielson's shoulder, and like the first had cut his scalp. Then with a shout they sprang forward. Luer's antagonists gave way and ran for the door. The man who was confronting the wounded man Nielson stopped long enough to strike a blow at his face with the butt of his revolver, inflicting a slight cut. Then he fled precipitately, all three of them being outside the door and down the street before Luer and Nielson had quite come to understand what had been taking place.

Seeing that his partner was wounded Luer ran to his assistance, "and that is the reason," said he coolly to the reporter as the story was told to this point, "why we didn't catch the fellows. We ought to have done it to keep them from trying the same scheme on somebody else."

It would seem to the man of average experience that two unarmed men who had fought off three determined robbers, ready to kill if need be to carry out their purpose, had done quite all that could be expected under the circumstances. Luer and Nielson are both young men and they and their families—each is married and has children—live directly behind the store building. At midnight last night the wounded man was resting easily and he will probably recover without difficulty.

The other two affairs have some points of resemblance to this, but as they took place about the same time several miles away, it is not possible that they were executed by the same persons, although they all may belong to the same gang.

At about 7 o'clock three men entered the stotian at Sepulveda, which is about five miles from the city limits, wearing blue gauze masks on their faces and armed with revolvers. No resistance was offered by any of the inmates, and in a few minutes the bandits were back on their horses, having captured $1,300 in specie and bank notes which were in the possession of the ticket agent.

Their next stop was made at the Four-Mile House, a station and inn kept by a man by the name of Hunter. It is about three-quarters of a mile outside of the city limits. The three burst into the room, their revolvers in their hands. Within were four men, one of them the proprietor and the others guests at the inn.

"Hold up your hands!" said the leader of the gang, and the men obeyed, the revolvers leveled in their faces leaving not much choice in the matter. They were then searched one by one and their money and valuables taken from them. The till was emptied and about $200 altogether became the booty of the robbers. The men were then led into an adjoining room, where their trunks were, and each one was compelled to hand over his keys. Each robber supplied himself with a new suit of clothes and a revolver. Among the other plunder they secured a gold watch and two gold watch chains.

When the job was done they left the men locked in the inner room, mounted their horses and started off toward town. Word was immediately sent to the city by telephone, and in a short time a posse of police were on the ground following up the trail. It soon left the road to the city and started off toward the mountains, losing itself among the sheep ranches of the foothills. They were still in pursuit when the last news came into the city. Officers Fowler and Maguire returned at 1 o'clock this morning.

CIGAR SMUGGLING.

How Hippolyte Goujon Tried to Evade the Law.

Hippolyte Goujon was examined yesterday before United States Commissioner Van Dyke on a charge of smuggling 300 Mexican cigars from Lower California into the United States. He was held to answer in $500 bail. The testimony before the Commissioner showed that Goujon kept a store and saloon at Tia Juana, just across the line, and that on the occasion in question he was seen by a number of people to drive his buggy up in front of his place. While they watched him they saw him throw a valise in the bottom of the vehicle and shortly after a bundle wrapped up in white paper. He then got in and drove his horse along the road and when he crossed the line the Customs Inspector ordered him to halt and submit to a search but Goujon whipped up his animal and drove on. The Inspector then saddled a horse and pursued Goujon for about two miles, when he saw him stop in front of a stable and get out of the buggy. When the Inspector arrived Goujon was about to drive off, but he was halted and his buggy searched. The bundle was gone and when asked what had become of it Goujon replied that it was some clothes which he had given away. The Inspector then searched the stable, and in the loft under the hay he found a bundle containing six boxes of cigars. It was of the same appearance as the bundle which had been seen in Goujon's hands, and Goujon was arrested and charged with smuggling with above result.

THE N. G. C.

Company F Will Now Step to the Front.

Important business was transacted at the convention of Company F, N. G. C., summoned by Colonel Russell on Friday night. The company has heretofore been handicapped on account of there being no State allowance for its support and it has run considerably into debt for rent and other incidental expenses. From the first of the new year, however, it will receive an appropriation of $1,200 a year from the State Legislature and it is understood that the same amount will be granted as back pay for 1888, as the company has now been in existence about a year, its organization being completed on the 20th of December, 1887. The financial trouble has hitherto kept the company in the background, but now that the load is removed its members will go ahead with renewed vigor, and make the organization one that the city will be proud of.

THE SALT LAKE ROAD.

How it will Run Northward After Leaving Los Angeles.

Ever since the Los Angeles, Salt Lake and Atlantic Road obtained its franchise through the city, it has been a matter of general inquiry as to which way it would reach the ocean. Although not definitely settled, it is said that the overtures made by the Alamitos Road syndicate have been so satisfactory that in all probability the route of that line will be used. The Salt Lake Road will then run on the east side of the Los Angeles River, through town, and on across the Nadeau vineyard to Clearwater, where it will pick up the Alamitos road survey and go on to the ocean. Northward from town the line has not yet been definitely located, the routes of the different surveys having already been given in the HERALD.

A Quilting Bee.

There will be an old-fashioned "quilting bee" in the Sunday School room of the Simpson Tabernacle on Hope street, near Eighth, next Tuesday evening. The entertainment will be given under the auspices of the gentlemen's society of church. The ladies will as in the olden time quilt most industriously during the day and evening, when as not in the olden time, the gentlemen will serve a New England dinner. There will be a bountiful supply of baked beans, ham, potatoes, cranberry sauce, squash and mince pies, baked apples, pickles, cheese, fruit, doughnuts and tea and coffee, with cream. There will also be an interesting programme furnished by the gentlemen, a table of fancy and useful articles suitable for holiday gifts for sale by the young gentlemen, and a splendid good time for everybody.

Whittier Monthly Dance.

The third social dance given by the dancing club last Friday night was a grand success, both financially and socially. They were about forty-five couples present, including people from Los Angeles, Rivera, El Monte, Ranchita, Anaheim and Fulton Wells. The dresses worn by the ladies were modestly neat, black being the predominating color. At midnight the party was served with an excellent supper, after which dancing was continued until 3:30 A. M., when all sought their several homes, expressing themselves as delighted with the evening's enjoyment.

The Raymond Party.

The special vestibuled train containing the Raymond excursionists was considerably delayed east of the Needles and arrived in this city at 10:30 o'clock last night instead of at 2:30 P. M., the hour appointed. A number of the visitors left the cars at the First-street depot and remained in town over night, but the majority went on to the Raymond at Pasadena. Those who were booked for the northern part of the State will leave to-morrow, a lay-over of forty-eight hours being given in Los Angeles for the purposes of sight-seeing.

Pullman Passengers.

The following Pullman passengers left yesterday for San Francisco and the East:

By the 1:30 P. M. train: E. D. Silent, L. N. Smith, Mr. Cornell, Hon. J. Austin, Mr. Morganthall, Mr. Gremfelder, Mr. Rose, Mr. Batley, Mr. Gerberding, J. M. Merrill.

By the 10:30 P. M. train: M. J. Chamberlain, L. Robinson, Capt. Sanderson, J. B. Lankershim, Mrs. Koch, Mr. Pierce, J. S. Mills, Mr. Blakeslee.

On Week-Days Only.

The Colton flyer will no longer run on Sundays, as being essentially a business man's train it has scarcely a corporal's guard on board on "the day of rest." It has proved a great success during the week-days, and the number of its patrons is increasing daily. It has been making a great time record, as it is always in at the minute appointed.

Christmas.

With the preceding and subsequent holiday season is almost upon us. The festivities originated with the Germans at their annual "Yule" feast, centuries ago, and continued in a greater or lesser degree with people of every nation, whether black, white or colored, until the present day, have lost none of the cardinal principles from which the the season was founded. Souvenirs are sent thousands of miles to friends and loved ones, while at home the Christmas tree, laden with beautiful presents for the little ones, has gradually displaced the more homely though once attractive "stocking" at the fireside.

THE NEW THEATER.

It Will Be Opened To-Morrow Night.

ITS INTERIOR ARRANGEMENT.

A Full Description of the Furnishing and of the Stage Fittings.

To-morrow night the new Los Angeles Theatre will be thrown open to the public, and it will be crowded by the theatre-goers, who have been anxious for months past to know what it looks like on the inside. The handsome exterior was watched with interest as it went up, and was considered as indicative of a handsome interior, and now that the latter has been finished, the visitors will be able to see to-morrow night that the promises have been carried out. Entering from Spring street, the visitor will first be called upon to admire the tiling which has been laid during the past few days. Just back of the marble step, in large white letters on a blue background of tiling are the words, "Los Angeles Theater," and back of this to the doors entering the dress circle the tiles have been artistically laid and are handsomely bordered in different colors. The stucco work of the entrance is particularly noticeable and in keeping with the rest of the arrangements. The box office to the left, with its plate-glass windows, is very conveniently arranged, and Mr. Okey, the Treasurer, will find himself in very comfortable quarters. Passing through the double doors the visitor will find himself looking directly upon the stage, with its handsome curtain adding to the beauty of the house. The appearance from this point is very inviting and the general tone of the finishing is such as to be restful rather than brilliant, although the dark red McVicker chairs give a coloring to the whole which is very pleasing. These chairs, which are seldom to be found in theaters owing to their expense, will add to the attractions of the theater, for the visitor cannot become tired, no matter how long the performance. These chairs cover the entire ground floors, consisting of the dress and parquet circles, and are to be found in the loges and boxes, of which there are a large number. On each side of the stage are two circular boxes capable of holding four persons each, and these are fitted regardless of cost. Towards the body of the house at the side of the boxes are two theatre-party divisions capable of holding twelve each, and in a continuous circle from these separating the dress circle from the parquet are eight loges, each capable of seating four persons. They are just low enough to permit those sitting behind to see the stage with comfort. The furnishing of the rails around these are of red plush with polished brass ornaments. Over head the balcony extends in circular form to the second tier of boxes which are counterparts of those below. The entire front of the balcony is occupied by boxes for family parties, and these are fitted with leather cushions of a very comfortable design. The rail surrounding the balcony is surmounted by a crim on plush cap and the carving of the woodwork beneath is artistic and in keeping with the nature of the house. Several hundred leather cushioned chairs are placed in the balcony, in tiers which gradually rise toward the back so as to give all in the center of the house a good view of the stage. Above the balcony is the gallery, to which admittance is obtained from the hallway. It is filled with benches and is conveniently arranged, except at the sides, from whence it is impossible to see the stage.

The ceiling and walls are decorated in modern style and are very handsome. In the center hangs a chandelier, which is an addition to the beauty of the house, and around the balcony and gallery fronts are gas fixtures, which add to the general effect, and will give plenty of light.

In front of the parquet and directly below the footlights is the pit for the musicians. The floor of this is lowered so that the heads of the players and their instruments will not be visible from the audience.

Behind the scenes the arrangements are most complete. On each side of the stage in front are commodious dressing rooms which will be used by the leading actors. The dressing rooms for the other people are below the stage and are eight in number. The other arrangements of the stage have been made with a view of keeping as much space clear as possible. Away up above are seen platforms on which unused scenery can be stored, and half way are platforms where myriads of ropes are attached. These are the strings by which the drops and drop lights are lowered or raised. On another platform the scene painter has his materials and he has turned out several complete settings which will be seen for the first time to-morrow night. At the side of the drop curtain is the gas regulator with its hundred branches. The stage manager can regulate the light here in any portion of the house. Adjoining is the electrical lighting machine which is perfect in its construction. Speaking tubes connect the stage with the orchestra, the box office and several others and nothing has been omitted which would tend to make the arrangement perfect. The opening performance will be Diplomacy by Jeffreys Lewis and her company.

A GRAND OPERATIC FESTIVAL.

The Appearance in This City of the Emma Abbott Opera Company.

The mere announcement that the Emma Abbott Opera Company, headed by the illustrious prima donna herself, would inaugurate a brief festival of opera in this city, has already created a furor among the music-loving people of Los Angeles. The season here two years ago was such a phenomenally successful one as to be long remembered by the theater-goers of this city, and judging from the interest already manifested by the announcement of her coming, there is no reason to doubt that Miss Abbott's visit on this occasion will prove equally, if not more so, as successful as that of her former visit.

Miss Abbott's visit to this city on this occasion is of more than usual importance, as it amply proves that Los Angeles is deemed worthy a city to be visited regularly by all classes of high art amusements and not merely used as a stopping place between the East and San Francisco. As a proof of this the Abbott Company will play for nine nights at the Grand Opera House, beginning December 24th, and will in all give twelve performances.

She has this year added several new operas to her already varied extensive repertoire, and, it is needless to state, has already become as identified with the characters as in those of her old favorites. Chief among the recent acquisitions may be mentioned Carlo Diavolo, a beautiful and sparkling opera, by Auber, author of Fra Diavolo, written in this famous composer's best vein, and considered by all eminent musical critics to be, if anything, superior in point of musical excellence to that great work. In this opera Miss Abbott portrays the role of a mischievous young boy who impersonates the character of His Satanic Majesty. Another valuable acquisition to the musical world has been the bringing forward once more of Marchetti's sublime opera of Ruy Blas. The plot of this work is founded upon Victor Hugo's celebrated tragedy of the same name, and the character of "Queen Marie Therese" is one that requires great dramatic ability, as well as remarkable vocal talents.

The Rose of Castile, by Balfe, author of The Bohemian Girl, is another opera replete with beautiful music that has been resuscitated by Miss Abbott. No greater proof of Miss Abbott's versatility could be furnished than the fact that she has also added to her list Bellini's great masterpiece, Norma. Norma is considered by all prima donnas to be the most difficult of all grand operas. The "Castra Diva" is without doubt one of the most trying selections ever written for an artist, and Miss Abbott's rendition is pronounced to be artistic in the extreme.

Los Angeles is also promised a great treat in the production of Gilbert & Sullivan's new and latest success, The Yeomen of the Guard, or the Merryman and His Maid. The music of this opera is considered superior to any yet from the able pen of Sir Arthur Sullivan, while in none of his previous efforts is Gilbert's great ability as a wit and satirist more ably shown.

The company returns to us with all the old favorites and notably strengthened in some instances. First and foremost is the renowned Emma herself. There is probably no artist on the operatic stage who has achieved such a distinct success as Miss Emma Abbott. Her versatility is unquestioned and her repertoire now includes upwards of forty operas, ranging from the coquettish and winsome music of the Mikado to the heavy and classical music of Norma, from the bright and catching airs of the Bohemian Girl and Martha to the difficult and sublime selections of Faust or Trovatore.

Of her voice it can only be stated that it has fully retained that subtle power and bird-like sweetness which have made her so famous the world over. Her middle and lower register are, if such a thing is possible, probably more full and strengthened, but with that small exception there is no perceptible change. Her fioriture is as finished and clear as ever, and the beautiful, sweet ness and extreme sympathetic quality of her voice are still unimpaired. The delicately vibrant quality of her tones are observant in every one of her selections, and her marvelous execution never fails to thrill the heart of her appreciative listeners. But it is not as a vocalist alone that Miss Abbott has reached to such a height. She is possessed of great dramatic ability, and as an eminent critic once remarked that were she not an exceptional prima donna, she still would take first rank among the actresses of to-day.

Miss Lizzie Annandale, the contralto of the company, and everywhere considered the first American contralto, is an old favorite with Los Angeles theatre-goers. An extremely powerful though sweet voice, combined with a magnficent stage presence and fine figure, have combined to place her where she properly belongs on the operatic stage. Her voice is of marvelous range and her execution unequalled.

In Miss Nina Bertini the company has received a very valuable acquisition. This little lady has a mezzo-soprano voice of great sweetness and power. Bright and winsome in appearance, she has become a great favorite wherever she has appeared, and great things are prophesied for her in the near future.

The personnel of the male members of the company is practically unchanged The tenor roles are alternately taken by Michelena, the handsome and fascinating tenor legiere, and Montegriffo, the great tenor robusto, who both stand in the front ranks of the profession. Pruethe is now considered the leading exponent of baritone parts on the stage, his manly presence adding in a great degree to the extreme pleasure one experiences upon listening to his beautiful notes. The deep, rich, withal sweet bass voice of Broderick, is still to be heard more finished and full than ever, while Allen never fails to capture the audience with his exceedingly clever buffo impersonations. With such a cast of principals there is no wonder why the Emma Abbott Opera Company has become the acknowledged standard musical organization and stands, as it does, pre-eminently at the head.

The performances will be greatly strengthened by the full and splendid chorus, and a largely increased orchestra under the able leadership of Mr. Carl Martens.

Miss Abbott has supplied herself this season with an unusually large and gorgeous wardrobe. The dresses are all of her own original design, and are from the establishments of such famous modistes as Worth, Felix and Madame Louise. Some of her dresses have been aptly designated as "poems in silks and satins" and are looked upon with rapture, not unmixed with envy, by all fair theatergoers, who one and all admit that they are marvels of beauty and elegance, and that they are "just too lovely for anything."

The sale of seats for the first week will open at the box office of the Grand Opera-house next Wednesday morning. The repertoire for the week announced will be as follows:

Monday night, Carlo Diavolo; Christmas matinee (Tuesday), Martha; Tuesday night, Mikado; Wednesday, Ruy Blas; Thursday, Norma; Friday night, Trovatore; Saturday matinee, Bohemian Girl; Saturday night, Rose of Castile.

The programme for the balance of the engagement has not as yet been announced, but will include several popular operas, and will be published as soon as possible.

A HISTORY.

Six years ago the 16th day of this month we made our bow for public favors at the corner of Spring and First streets, with a capital stock of Five Thousand Dollars. Poor health compelled us to exchange the rigors of an Iowa climate for the milder one of Southern California. Mr. John W. Hughes, Jr., another invalid, who has since died, was our only employee. One-third of the store was rented out to the millinery firm of Smith & Wedge; another third to the real estate firm of Graham & Clarke. We retained one-third—done our own housework, so to speak, by sweeping out the store, washing the windows and selling goods. In this way we had strong hopes of making a living. Health, new life and energy began to be felt. More salespeople were added. Our business began to grow. We were at that time the smallest dry goods house in the city. It soon became necessary for us to take the room occupied by the millinery firm. Next, the real estate office. In a short time we added the basement. We soon outgrew all this. Our next move was the leasing of our present premises, two floors, each 36 by 208 feet, containing nearly 15,000 square feet of room, and occupied the lower floor only. This soon became too crowded. Then a portion of the second floor was fitted up, and still the business continued to grow. Soon the entire floor was fitted up and stocked full of goods. The handsomest Passenger Elevator in Southern California was added. This is run by hydraulic pressure, using 250,000 gallons of water per month, carrying as many as 2,000 persons each day. To-day we are the largest dry goods house in Southern California. Six years ago the smallest in the city. This fall we issued our first Catalogue to capture the out-of-town trade through our Mail Order Department. Ten thousand copies have been mailed all over Southern and Middle California, Arizona, New Mexico and a part of Utah, Nevada and Colorado. The success of this new and costly venture is fully assured. We receive and dispatch more mail each day than any ten houses in the city. We pay out more money to advertise our business than all the dry goods houses in Los Angeles county combined. Twenty-five departments, thoroughly systematized, under the able management of W. R. Mackendrick, who has under his charge nearly 100 employees, makes the good-will of the business to-day a capital of itself. Why this great success? Our business is managed on a broad-gauged, liberal basis. One price and cash is the foundation. Competition is met in every instance. Any customer purchasing any goods of us, and feeling dissatisfied after taking the goods home, can bring them back—if in good merchantable condition—and get their money. Questionable methods are never indulged in to catch trade. Incivility on the part of employees is never tolerated. The best treatment is none too good. Urging of sales is one of the principles of the back ages, and is far too remote to be countenanced in this day of progress. We carry a stock unequalled by any house in Southern California. Upon our past record we ask for a continuance of public favors. We append a list of our employees:

The Value of Los Angeles Lands.

The HERALD this morning devotes a very large portion of its space to a detailed and exhaustive review of the farming lands of this county and section, and to facts connected with their value and the actual prices at which they are held in many cases. It will be seen that our researches have effectually exploded the idea that we have no cheap lands. Farming lands can be had as low as $20 an acre, but in large bodies. Of course it only requires that there should be an earnest inquiry for these lands to secure their subdivision, at perhaps a slight advance. But a very desirable class of farming lands can be had at the rate of $50 an acre in lots to suit. Now, these lands ought to meet the views of intending settlers. When they are considered with reference to their advantages, they are much cheaper lands than can be had in Northern California; for it must be remembered that good lands, well located, in that part of the State cannot be had cheap.

The impression seems to prevail that the only cheap lands are to be had in the upper counties, when the fact that eligibly situated lands in that part of the State are not to be had as cheap as lands with much better possibilities to the settler can be had in this section. We know that there are strips of land on the rise of the foothills east of the Sacramento that can be had at from $30 to $40 an acre. From personal observation we also know that these lands, cheap as they appear to be, are not worth as much as our cheapest lands. They are generally covered with shrubbery, deeply rooted in the soil, that has to be cleared at an expense of from $20 to $40 an acre, bringing their cost up to from $50 to $80. But that is not the worst of it. Men who have gone on those lands have found out to their sorrow that they are anything but profitable. The land is cold, and the growths are slow and unreliable. Wherever the lands are otherwise in that section, as in the vicinity of Newcastle, they range at from $100 to $250 an acre. The fact is, the same rule obtains in the northern part of the State that obtains everywhere—lands are rated at their productive value, and will be high or low in accordance with the character, quality and quantity of their productions, and the facilities for getting these to a profitable market.

Now, if we take this axiom as the guide to the value of lands in this county, it will be seen that our lands are the cheapest in the State, because they are the best in productive results. Why should forty acres of land that can be made to produce six or eight crops of alfalfa a year be held at the prices that are asked for lands in the northern counties which can barely produce one crop of anything? It would be absurd to sell a man a fine gold watch as cheap as a common time-keeper with silver cases. Those people, however, who come here with the Western idea of extensive farms, must disabuse themselves of it. They must consider that a farmer with forty acres in this county can double discount in results the farms of one hundred and sixty acres elsewhere. If he can purchase forty acres of well watered land here for the same aggregate price, he would have to pay for one hundred and sixty in the north, he should certainly, if he is wise, elect to buy the forty acres here; for with less labor he would produce infinitely greater results, and consequently profit, from his forty acres here than he could with his hundred and sixty in the north. In the north with his cheap land he would hardly have a single production to market the first, or even the second or third year; whilst here he could produce his alfalfa crop from the start. He could put out vines and trees that would be growing whilst he was making money right along from his cows, and from the potatoes and other vegetables he could raise, and which are always marketable here at a profit. His vines would come into bearing the third year, and his trees would be yielding fruit to sell the fourth. Thus he would have almost instant returns from his forty acres here, with constantly increasing results till the fourth year, when he would be in a state of independence. Just about that time, the man on his hundred and sixty acres north would begin to have something to ship to market, if he was in good luck.

Intending settlers should devote serious consideration to this aspect of the question before they rashly leave this section to locate in the north.

THERE has seldom been such a malign prospect ahead for any political organization flushed with victory as that which confronts the Republican party now, and we will briefly say why. There is no question of the fact that Mr. James G. Blaine furnished the keynotes for the late Presidential canvass on the Republican side. The HERALD neither during nor since the canvass has indulged in any harsh criticism of the Republican candidate for President. As a matter of fact he approved himself to us as a good deal of a gentleman, like his grandfather before him, but not as a man who would be likely, as the phrase goes, to set the river on fire. Since his election he has been subjected to a degree of adulation that might well distemper his intellect and force his egotism to the front. Probably owing his nomination and certainly his election to Blaine, Gen. Harrison finds himself surrounded with a lot of time servers who delight in dwarfing the Pine Tree statesman. We do not know whether or no Mr. Blaine would like to be Mr. Harrison's Secretary of State, but it is generally supposed that he does, and it is thought quite as generally in Republican circles that he ought to get anything he wants from the man by whom in all probability he was nominated and to whom he supplied the intellectual and partizan initiative to which Harrison owes his success. Should the President-elect fail to make Mr. Blaine his Premier he will have a fight on his hands compared to which, in vehemence and remorselessness, there has been nothing so portentous in American history. Like Conkling, Blaine is a good hater. When Mr. Arthur elected to ignore Mr. Conkling, the nomination of Secretary Folger for Governor of New York gave the Oneida chief the opportunity for his revenge. He improved it to the extent of seeing that Grover Cleveland was elected Governor of New York by a majority that was without precedent. It is true that the Half Breeds, the friends of Mr. Blaine, also contributed to this result, and made the issue a rather complex one. But the fact is that the era of complex politics will again supervene, to the great benefit of the Democracy, if Gen. Harrison shall pass the modern King-maker by. Happily also for the Democratic party, the enemies of Blaine in the Republican party are so numerous that if he is called to the head of Gen. Harrison's Cabinet the issue will be almost equally disastrous. Thus the Republican leaders are confronted with a Scylla and Charybdis. Escaping one maelstrom, they are liable to be dashed to pieces on the rocks of the other.

THERE is no question of the fact that until lately rents were entirely too high in Los Angeles. There was of course a justification of this circumstance. It is true that the tide of travel had been great beyond precedent, and that the immigration which settled here was absolutely unparalleled. Los Angeles landlords are not singular in the fact they seek to get all the return they can upon their investment. Probably many of them pushed their exactions beyond the limits of good sense. As a result, the word went abroad that the stranger within our gates was simply regarded as a being who ought to be spoliated upon. While our hotel charges have really never been anything as great as those of the hotels of Spokane Falls and Port Townsend, at the same time that our accommodations have been inconceivably greater, with climate thrown in, ordinary room rents and office and store rents have been out of all reasonable standards here. Probably store and office rents are still too high. But as to room and house rents, outside of the immediate business center of the city, we are warranted in saying that they are now comparatively low. We have the authority of one of the best real estate agents of Los Angeles for the statement that comfortable houses and rooms, within a very short radius of the business center—in other words, not more than fifteen minutes' ride from the Court House—can be leased for rates as low as prevail in any city of the United States of anything approaching the size, to say nothing of the attractions, of Los Angeles. This regime of lower rents is a departure in the right direction, and it ought to be followed up in the very business center of Los Angeles itself. There is no sense in killing the goose that lays the golden egg. Ten per cent. per annum is the largest gross sum, taking the value of the ground and the improvements combined, that should be exacted from anybody. To look for more is to sacrifice the public good to private greed.

THE Democratic majority of the present House of Representatives inaugurated a new departure that ought to have made that party very strong on the Pacific Coast. The appropriation of $250,000 in the interest of irrigation ought to have been made years ago. The Pacific Coast portion of the United States is made up largely of extensive areas where the lands are arid and the rainfall uncertain. And yet, as to great stretches of these lands, they are the richest on the footstool, almost incredible in depth and fertile beyond belief when supplied with irrigating canals. We are not advised of precisely what distribution will be made of this considerable sum. It is, perhaps, even doubtful whether much of it will find its way west of the Rocky Mountains. But it is a good beginning. The most abundant crops that have ever rewarded the husbandman will be made on lands that were once grouped on what used to be called the Great American Desert if the National Treasury can be utilized even to a moderate extent for their development. No region of the globe has more generous watersheds than Colorado, Utah, Nevada, Arizona, Southern California and even Idaho and Montana, and all that is needed is an intelligent system for the storage of the winter rains. Even the Colorado and Mojave Deserts, under an intelligent system of irrigation, would soon be storehouses of almost illimitable agricultural and horticultural wealth.

THE pettifogger is driving a fine game in Southern California, of late. As grass is short with him he has tackled the newspapers, more promising subjects failing. A vicious newspaper ought to be suppressed at once, but an honest journal should be protected in its utterances to the last gasp, and for the public good, not for the good of the journal. God help the wretched and predestined community, in an ill-fared land to hastening ills a prey, when an honest newspaper cannot express its views. As an incident of this fine office in the interest of the public an occasional mistake, not founded in malice, must be condoned. We sometimes feel like giving certain shyster attorneys of Los Angeles real ground for a libel suit. But then we could not. Their simalacrum of a character is of such a shadowy and diaphanous consistency that a jury asked to redress their wrongs could do nothing but laugh. The effort would be like trying to clarify dish or bilge water.

THE recount of the votes in the Mayoralty contest in the late municipal election in San Francisco does not seem to present any very exciting features, although it shows inaccuracies, most of which counted against O'Donnell. One of the eccentricities of San Francisco is the steadily accumulating strength of a man whom all parties unite in denouncing as a charlatan, but who will probably, as things go, find himself Mayor after many struggles, as he did Coroner after similar unsuccessful efforts. It is said that everything is possible to the man who can wait, and O'Donnell seems to be one of those men Fortunately for Mayor Pond his sterling worth and splendid record have given him a second term.

THE good people of Los Angeles are treated this morning to a genuine sensation of the Dick Turpin order. No less than three bold robberies were committed just on the outskirts of the city during the early hours of last night. In one of their encounters with the people they would plunder the robbers met with a right hot reception. It is not often that this staid and sober community is startled by such bold deeds as these. It is very plain that the city has been paid a visit by a gang of bad characters, but they have come to the wrong place. Their career will be short here.

BANNER PRESENTATION.

A Slim Attendance at the Pavilion Last Night

Los Angeles county now poses as the banner Republican county of the State, the dignity being literally conferred on her yesterday by a delegation from Alameda county. The visitors consisting of Messrs. E. G. G. Denison, W. E. Cole, N. Hamilton Noble, A. C. Dietz and J. A. Pierce of Oakland, and J. Scotchler and L. B. Huff of Berkeley, arrived on the 7:15 train from the north yesterday morning and were met at the depot by a Committee of Reception appointed by the Republican forces here on Friday afternoon. They were escorted to the Nadeau House and the day was devoted to sightseeing, it being decided that the formal presentation of the pennant should take place in the evening. The proceedings were in charge of the following committeemen:

On Reception—W. N. Monroe, Chairman; F. J. Gilmore, W. S. Moore, Dr. Cochran, E. J. Niles, J. R. Finlayson, H. Z. Osborne, T. S. West, T. A. Cook, J. M. Damron, J. R. Brierly, J. H. Book, J. A. Kelley, Sutherland Hutton, W. Cole, C. W. Pendleton, Henry Schwannecke, J. W. Haverstick, T. Summerland, E. P. Sutherland and J. W. Hinton.

On Entertainment—H. Z. Osborne, Chairman; C. H. Denker, G. H. Bonebrake, E. F. Spence, W. S. Moore, Sutherland Hutton and J. R. Finlayson.

On Finance and Hall and Programme—H. T. Hazard, C. A. Stillson, Dr. Cochran, F. A. Gibson and J. H. Book.

On Charge of Banner—J. R. Finlayson, Chairman; C. W. Pendleton, E. P. Sutherland and Thomas A. Cook.

On Banquet—Hervey Lindley.

On Officers and Speakers—W. N. Monroe, Chairman; Dr. Cochran, J. R. Finlayson, W. S. Moore and W. W. Seamans.

AT THE PAVILION.

The attendance at the Pavilion when the exercises commenced was very slim indeed. Beyond the visitors and the officers of the evening there were not more than 100 people within the building, and the array of empty seats must have been rather a damper on the ardor of the organizers of the affair. The President of the evening was to have been the Hon. H. H. Markham, but he was unable to attend, so General Rawlings was chosen in his stead, and had for his staff the following Vice-Presidents:

W. N. Monroe, General Mansfield, J. E. McComas, H. W. Magee, E. E. Edwards, H. T. Hazard, W. H. Perry, I. N. Van Nuys, D. E. Miles, S. E. Mosher, Jotham Bixby, C. S Hassey, O. W. Baldwin, J. L Van Doren, Major J. A. Donnell, Col. H. G. Otis, H. Z. Osborne, C. C. Allen, Captain Banning, Col. Chapin, A. H. Denker, Senator Maclay, George M. Holton, C P. Johnson, B. N. Smith, Major W. H. Bonsall, J. H. Book, Col. John R. Dobbins, N. C. Carter, J. H. Haverstick, J. Frankenfeld, Major E. W. Jones, T. E. Lewis and Col. M. T. Owens, about half of whom, however, were not present.

Messrs. C. W. Pendleton, F. A. Gibson and Thomas A. Cook took their seats as secretaries, and the exercises commenced with an overture by Meine Bros. band, which was seated in the body of the hall. The banner occupied a prominent position in the center of the stage, and is a very fine piece of work, massive as well as handsome, being 6 by 6½ feet in size. The customary introduction of the president of the evening was made by Chairman W. N. Monroe, by whose side was seated Mayor-elect John Bryson, Sr., and General Rawlings in his turn introduced the Hon. Noble Hamilton, Chairman of the Alameda delegation, who made the delegation speech. He said that Alameda yielded up without envy the honor of being the banner Republican county of the State, and he congratulated Los Angeles on becoming the possessor of the trophy.

General Rawlings made the speech of acceptance, and said that the Oro Fino Club would always follow in the wake of the banner and the Union League would come next. This remark had an effect that the speaker little anticipated, as the members of the Union League feel very sore about it. They say that the Oro Fino Club pushed itself forward to take the honors of the affair, but the Union League had to bear the expenses connected with the visit of the delegation.

The next part of the programme was by Miss Metzler, who sang the "Star-Spangled Banner" in a charming manner. Speeches by General Pile, Judge Carpenter and Frank B. Kelly were then in order, and the proceedings closed with three cheers for the visitors.

THE BANQUET.

The banquet was the best of it all. It was served in the California Club rooms, and the menu was gotten up with all the skill of which the steward was capable. The dining-rooms were handsomely decorated, and the repast was enjoyed in the manner that it deserved. After-dinner speeches were many, and wit and eloquence flowed in a manner that showed that the talents of the town were well represented. Among the speakers who were officered by the Hon. H. T. Hazard, Chairman of the occasion, were the Hon. N. Hamilton Noble, of Alameda; John Bryson, Sr., Mayor-elect; Mr. Eli Denison; Jim McLachlan, who posed as Murchison; J. Scotchley, Colonel H. G. Otis; Sheriff W. E. Hale, of Alameda; General H. R. Rollins, Ed Fehnemann, Senator J. E. McComas, J. G. McCullum, H. Z. Osborne, Colonel W. S. Moore and Frank S. Kelley.

THE MORSE TRAGEDY.

The Inquest Commenced — More News About Oakes.

The excitement attending the Morse tragedy at San Bernardino has to a certain extent quieted down, but there is still a very bitter feeling against the assassin Oakes, which compels Sheriff Cole to keep up his vigilant efforts to protect his prisoner. The inquest over the remains of poor Morse was commenced yesterday morning by Coroner Wainwright, the first witness called being Mr. C. W. Filkins, who was in the bank at the time of the shooting and who nearly met his death on the occasion. His testimony was as regards Oakes' conduct; the details being the same as those published in the HERALD the morning after the murder. He was followed by Mr. C. H. Condee and Mr. Brookes, both of whom were about when the tragedy occurred and then Dr. Phelan who attended the deceased gave his report as to the cause of death. Mr. G. W. Sanborn, Superintendent for the Santa Fe Company, was next placed on the stand, and testified to an acquaintance with Oakes in Ohio. He had promised him work in San Bernardino as soon as an opening occurred, and had given him a small amount of money with which to purchase food. The report of the Commission of Lunacy was next in order, but as it was not ready the Coroner adjourned the inquest to Monday, the 23rd of December. The funeral of Morse will take place at 10 o'clock this morning.

A MISSING WIFE.

C. F. Beyer Asks the Police to Find Her.

Mr. C. F. Beyer, who keeps a lodging-house at 62 Amelia street, near Sansevain, came to the police station yesterday and made inquiries about his wife, who was missing. At 9 o'clock yesterday morning—so he told the story—without any warning whatsoever, she had left his house, taking with her her clothes and other possessions of a transportable character in a trunk. Beyer was not present when she went away, and thus lost the opportunity of expostulating with her and learning the motive for the act. He says that he has always tried to treat her kindly and can imagine no reason why she should wish to desert him. Once before she took it into her head to run off for a season and was gone three days, but he unhesitatingly forgave her upon her return. He promises to do it again if she will come back this time. According to his description she is a stout but comely young woman with blonde hair and blue eyes. If anyone should find her he is requested to send her back to her husband.

Forgot His Debt.

Steve Coleman, who used to be a deputy constable's assistant, was arrested yesterday on a warrant sent down from Lancaster, charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses. Last September he borrowed $1.50 from a Lancaster blacksmith named Johnson, and neglected either to return it or to go through the customary formula of promises. Johnson finally got mad and had a warrant issued for Coleman's arrest. The latter thinks that he has been subjected to rather harsh treatment and wants to know how much would be left of this community if every man who has borrowed a dollar or so and forgotten to return it were to be run in.

Chinese Gamblers.

Yesterday afternoon sixteen Chinamen were brought before Justice Bragg in Justice Taney's Court and arraigned on the charge of playing a game of dice. They were captured Friday night by half a dozen Deputy Constables, who made a raid down into Chinatown for the purpose of spying out any gambling which might be in progress. They managed to get into a room where they found a game going on, and arrested the entire gang. The Chinamen will be given a chance to plead "not guilty" next Tuesday morning. In the meantime they have been allowed to go on bail of $50 each.

An Adultery Case.

A case of adultery was tried yesterday in Justice King's court with closed doors. The parties are both well known people, one of them being the wife of a prominent attorney. As the charge was plainly without foundation, it was dismissed on motion of the District Attorney. The principals in the affair figured on the calendar as John Doe and Jane Roe.

Undelivered Telegrams.

The following are the telegrams remaining at the Western Union telegraph office up to 10 o'clock last night: Mrs. George Hubbard, Geo. R. Stratts, C. R. Lloyd, Mike Edwards, G. W. Wolfe, C. C. Neoman, Frank Edlman, P. Kervin, Lyman Elmore, Professor Schneider, Hall & Parkin.

Philharmonic Concert.

To-morrow night the second Philharmonic concert will take place at the Grand Opera House. The lady members of the society will decorate the stage to-morrow morning. The box sheet shows that there will be a full house.

Indians Sentenced.

Judge Ross yesterday sentenced Bill Whaley and three other Indians to five years imprisonment at San Quentin for killing an Indian doctor. The text of his opinion in the case will be found in to-morrow's HERALD.

EASTERN HAPPENINGS.

Customs Officers Make a Discovery.

WHOLESALE OPIUM SMUGGLING.

Several Large Consignments Captured—The Sullivan-Kilrain Bluff—Other Items.

[Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.]

PORT HURON, Mich., December 15.—For some time it has been well known here and at other points along the border that a big consignment of opium was en route through Canada, and that an effort would be made to smuggle it across the border somewhere in this customs district. Yesterday afternoon four customs officers were dispatched up shore with instructions to look after the consignment of the drug, which would be landed probably at Sand Beach or near there. The plans of the officers were successfully executed in so far as securing the drug was concerned, but no arrests have yet been made.

The opium was landed from a little schooner near Port Hope and hidden on shore, the schooner at once putting back to Canada. The officers found the opium last night, but a confederate who was guarding it escaped. The opium, valued at $20,000, was brought from Vancouver, B. C. It is believed Labelle, the famous smuggler who recently escaped from the United States officials after he had been arrested here and was being taken to Detroit, is engaged in the present enterprise. Arrests are almost sure to follow.

A LATER REPORT.

A later report says the officers while scouring the country last night, several miles from Sand Beach, heard a horse approaching and recognized the rider as Harry Durant, who was arrested in connection with opium cases last summer, but escaped on account of lack of evidence. When ordered to halt he fired at the officers several times, then jumped from his horse and escaped into the woods. The officers searched for him for some time, but were unable to find him. Then they followed his trail in the direction from which he came, came, and after considerable search struck a cache near the road, from which they unearthed a number of cases of opium valued at between $18,000 and $25,000. Durant is supposed to be at the head of a gang of Canadian smugglers and every effort will be made to run them all down.

ANOTHER HUGE CONSPIRACY.

ST. PAUL, December 15.—The Pioneer-Press says United States secret service officers here are on the track of a gigantic opium smuggling conspiracy. They have learned that an organized and well equipped band of smugglers for years has been operating across the northwestern border. One of the gang was arrested secretly at Denver, Col., and made a full confession. Acting upon the information given him, the Deputy Collector at St. Vincent, Minn., went west to a point on the Dakota line, Wednesday, and intercepted a wagon load of eight hundred pounds of crude opium. The whole outfit was seized. The driver of the wagon was arrested Last night the Government detectives left St. Paul for the north to arrest the man to whom the opium was consigned.

THE DENVER CAPTURE.

DENVER, Col., December 15.—A. C. Nielson, alias J. M. Leonard, is the name of the man arrested in Denver, charged with opium smuggling. On Tuesday last Mark Harding, a special agent of the Treasury Department, reported to United States Marshal Hill that he suspected Neilson's presence in this city. Harding had a copy of a waybill from the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba railway for some freight shipped at Battineau, Dakota, for this city. The consignors claimed that the freight consisted of household goods. This consignment was directed to A. C. Nielson, Denver, Col., and weighed 850 pounds. Deputy Marshal Currier proceeded to the Union Pacific freight office for the purpose of making the arrest when the goods were called for. On Wednesday a stranger with ill fitting clothes asked for the goods consigned to Nielson, and he was placed under arrest. Neilson's trunk at the Metropolitan Hotel was subsequently searched and found to contain 147 packages of prepared opium, containing seventy-three pounds. No compromising documents were found on Nielson's person or among his effects, except some cards of Chinese merchants in San Francisco. The prisoner, without knowing his trunk had been opened, said he was awaiting his household goods to reship them to San Francisco. Aside from this, he was absolutely noncommital, and would not say a word, even in his own behalf. Nielson is well supplied with money despite his tramp-like appearance, and had $175 in his pockets when arrested. The prisoner waived examination when arraigned before the Commissioner, and was taken Friday night by an officer to St. Paul. These particulars did not leak out until to-day.

BLUFFED AGAIN.

The Kilrain-Sullivan Match Far From Agreed Upon.

NEW YORK, December 15.—Another hitch occurred to-day in the arrangements for the fight for the championship of the world between Jake Kilrain and John L. Sullivan. To-day a gentleman, who gave his name as Richard Roe, and announced himself as a friend of Kilrain, called on Colonel Colvin, editor of the New York Clipper, and expressed his willingness to cover the $5,000 that the Sullivan party had put up. He handed Colvin a large document and afterwards $5,000. Colvin stowed these away in his desk. The stranger anxiously asked for a receipt for his money. Colvin said they never gave receipts for such deposits, that the fact of the deposit would be duly chronicled in his paper. Further persuasion proving unavailing, Mr. Roe said he could not leave the money unless he was given a receipt. Colvin opened the drawer of his desk and took out the envelope and handed it back to Roe.

Colvin states that the big document was largely a denial of Sullivan's claim to the championship of the world, and made a counter claim of the title for Kilrain. It offered to make a match with Sullivan for the title and a stake of $5,000 a side; this was $5,000 less than Sullivan's challenge intended, and so was not an acceptance of it. The stipulations also included the diamond-studded gold champion's belt now held by Kilrain, and it also provided that Kilrain as the holder of the championship, should be permitted to name the time and place of the fight. Virtually it amounted to the ignoring of the points of Sullivan's challenge, and the substitution of others more to Kilrain's liking. Heretofore in all championship matches the title and place of the combat either have been settled by mutual agreement, and especially the time of battle, or had been decided by the tossing of a coin.

Before leaving the visitor said he was speaking by card when he announced that Kilrain meant business, and if Sullivan and his friends were not dealing in another bluff they can make arrangements to meet Frank Stevenson, of this city, and James Keenan, of Boston, on behalf of Kilrain to discuss and arrange any little differences of opinion that may exist between them as to the relative merits of Sullivan as the present champion.

HAYTIAN AFFAIRS.

Rumors That the Petty Power Will Show Fight.

NEW YORK, December 15.—Advices from Hayti contain intelligence that is startling, if true. General Legitime, they say, has been informed by the cable to Jamaica, of the order issued by the United States Navy Department for three cruisers to go to sea at once. Since the news reached him General Legitime is said to have ordered two gunboats to Port-au-Prince, and they are now supposed to be lying in the harbor there. Legitime is also having the Belize equipped for active service, and the work of putting the guns aboard of her is about completed.

When asked about this report, Minister Preston said the Belize is a strong, well built vessel. When she was built in England special regard was paid to the fact that she might be used as a gunboat in case of need. She will carry one 60-pound gun amidships and four 16-pound guns.

The Atlas Line steamer Andes sailed to-day for Port-au-Prince. Rumors that she carried several hundred thousand ball cartridges for the Haytian government could not be officially verified. From another source it is learned, in addition to cartridges, she carries 1,000 Winchester and Remington rifles.

WILL TAKE TIME BY THE FORELOCK.

Another story about town is that the Haytians are to release the steamer Haytian Republic and send her back to the United States before our men-of-war can get to Port-au-Prince, thus avoiding the humiliation of being forced to give up the vessel.

Minister Preston this morning refused to affirm or deny the report to the effect that a crew, under contract to him to take possession of the seized steamer Haytian Republic, has arrived at Kingston. The report, however, is credited in shipping circles and is looked upon as a wise movement of the Haytian Minister. It is argued that this crew will at once be sent to Port-au-Prince and placed immediately on the Haytian Republic and the vessel will be headed for New York, where she will arrive before the Galena and Yantic reach Hayti.

FISHED FROM THE LAKE.

Finding of the Body of Hawes' Second Daughter.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., December 15.—The body of Irene Hawes, the second daughter of Dick Hawes, was found in the lake at Lake View this morning. The water had been drained until only a foot or two deep. The child wore a small slip half covering the body, and a hemp cord, fastened to two heavy fish plates weighing thirty pounds each, was fastened to the babe. It was found near the point where Mrs. Hawes' body was discovered.

The find caused no excitement, as the people had expected for a week that it would be found near where the mother's body was discovered. When told that the body of his other missing child had been found, Hawes had nothing to say except to ask in an indifferent sort of a way where it was. He then refused to answer any questions. No trouble is expected to-night, but the guard at the jail has been increased as a matter of extra precaution.

A Locomotive's Leap.

WHEELING, W. Va., December 14.—This morning engine No. 8, pulling the Bellaire and Martin's Ferry accommodation train on the Cleveland, Loraine and Wheeling Railroad, jumped the track on a trestle over Morgan's Run and plunged to the ground below, a distance of thirty feet. In its descent the engine turned over twice and landed with its top deeply embedded in the earth. There was but one passenger coach attached, the coupling of which broke, leaving the coach with its twenty-five passengers safely on the track. The prompt action of Conductor Fowler in applying the automatic air brake saved his coach and passengers. Engineer Samuel Showalter was seriously injured and died this evening. The fireman escaped unhurt.

Record Breakers.

NEW YORK, December 15.—At Madison Square Garden to-night there took place the contests of the Manhattan Athletic Club. L. E. Meyers came on the track and gave an exhibition of a run of a half mile in 2 minutes and 11 seconds. J. S. Mitchell, of the Irish Athletic team, who is now a member of the Manhattans, threw the 56-pound weight 15 feet into the air on his sixth throw, breaking the record by one foot and three inches. The team giants, J. S. Mitchell, the Irish giant, and A. Lambrecht, of the Staten Island Athletic Club, put the 24-pound shot, and tied with throws of 32 feet, 7 inches. The best previous record was 25 feet, 11 inches in England.

Rowell Challenges Littlewood.

NEW YORK, December 15.—Geo. W. Atkinson has cabled the following from London to Richard K. Fox: Charles Rowell has issued a challenge for a six-day go-as-you-please walking match to Charles Albert, champion of America, and George Littlewood, champion of the world, for the diamond belt lately won by the latter, and the sum of $500 a side. He also states that he will enter in a sweepstakes match for any sum from £100 to £500 each and the diamond belt, open to all, to come off next March in Agricultural Hall, Islington, or in the Aquarium, London.

Federation of Labor Adjourned.

ST. LOUIS, December 15.—The American Federation of Labor re-elected Samuel Gompers, of New York, President, and chose Boston as the place of next meeting.

The afternoon session was very brief; after disposing of routine matters the Federation adjourned until the second Tuesday of next December.

A Big Fire.

ST. LOUIS, December 15.—A disastrous fire occurred to-night in a building on Pine street, between Third and Fourth, occupied by several printing and publishing concerns. The loss aggregated $230,000, with ample insurance.

CIRCASSIAN SLAVE GIRLS.

Their Lot is a Happy One, and They Are Invariably Contented.

We have wasted a good deal of sympathy upon the Circassian girls who are sold to the highest bidder in the Turkish slave market. They have been brought up with an eye to this fate from babyhood. They are expected to make the family fortune; are given the daintiest food, and their health and beauty are matters of constant solicitude. Warm, perfumed baths and silken clothing keep their skins soft and fresh, and they are allowed to do no work. The rest of the family usually fare hard, eat coarse food and do rough labor.

When the future slave girl has reached budding womanhood she is disposed of to a dealer in slaves, who lets his best customers know that he possesses a treasure almost priceless, and all her virtues and beauties are detailed with the usual Oriental exaggeration. Finally some royal Princess or rich Pasha's wife expresses a wish to see her, and extra care having been taken with her bath and dress, she is presented for inspection.

From long preparation and jealous guarding from the sun she has a skin as white as milk, and her naturally beautiful type of face is adorned with the usual tints of kohl to the eyebrows and eyelashes and rouge to the full red lips. Her exquisitely shaped nails glow with henna, and her own luxurious hair is intertwined with meshes of silk (for the Prophet curses women who join their own hair to that of another) till it reaches her ankles in an uneven number of trails, an even number being forbidden.

She gives samples of her accomplishments, musical, gymnastic and otherwise. Accepted, she is at once clothed with a rich silk dress and receives a present of a necklace or bracelet as an earnest of favor before she joins her fellow-slaves. Beyond assisting her mistress in the toilet, accompanying her in her drives and handing her coffee and cigarettes, she has little to do. She is an ornamental appendage rather than a servant. When the time comes for her to be married her owner chooses a husband and gives a rich dower, and many of the marriages of slave girls eclipse in magnificence, even those of the wealthier classes.

The erstwhile barefooted, ragged little Circassian from Turcoman's land is now a Princess, or Pasha's wife, with slaves of her own, but she would laugh if you suggested to her that there was anything degrading in their position or had been in her own. The degradation and the hardships are simply ideas formed in ignorance of the facts and conditions of Oriental domestic life and have no place in reality. Of course there is another side to the picture, but even that is not a very dark one. The girl may fall under the displeasure of either the master or mistress, and will then get punished. She may be locked up for a few hours, or, if her mistress is hot-tempered, have her hair pulled and receive a sounding box on the ear. Perhaps in very rare and extreme cases a severe beating may be administered, but the same might and would often happen in the case of a paid servant. A reconciliation, however, shortly takes place and the peace is cemented with a present of a new dress or trinket.—[Fashion Bazaar.

TEACHING KISSING.

A Philadelphia School for the Fine Art.

"Oh, yes," said the Professor, in answer to the reporter's question, "this is what we call a kissing school. You see I am an American who has spent a number of years abroad, principally in Paris. I was very much surprised on arriving there to find such schools as this one, which I have just established, very plentiful. To be able to kiss well, and put into the action that gentle animation which must be combined with a willful resignation to the act, is a science over which very few people in America have control. All your American kissers do their kissing impulsively, and without considering the great advantage and ethereal pleasure to be found in calm, cool deliberation and premeditation. My wife, who is a native of France, and who was reputed to be the most graceful kisser in Paris, gave a young man his first lesson in kissing the other day, and when the ordeal was over she nearly fainted. The poor fellow grabbed her in his arms and squeezed her almost to death, kissing her everywhere but on the mouth."

"Say, Professor, don't you get jealous?"

"Me? Oh, no. You see it's a purely business transaction between my wife and the young man who wants to learn how to kiss, and if I find that she is putting any superfluous sentiment into his osculations he gets the bounce. Very handsome young men in Paris, who came to our school, used to make an impression on my wife and she got 'mashed' on some of them. As a result, I bear scars upon my person that were received in duels. Of course, I give the kissing lessons to the girls, but never allow my fascination to some of them to overcome my better judgment.

"What is there in kissing? Just as much if not more, than there is in eating. The next time you go to see your girl, young man, kiss her lightly and with deliberation. If she happen to be standing just put your left arm around her waist and draw her to you. Of course she'll be bashful. She will turn her head away. Then you must put your right hand to her left cheek, the hand open, and draw her face around to you. Then look her straight in the eyes for half a minute, bend your head down slowly and prepare for action. Don't pucker up your lips. Allow them to remain in natural repose. Don't push your mouth against her as if you were going to knock her teeth out. When the lips are forced together the teeth come in contact with the lips and form a resistance which is decidedly unpleasant. The lips should just meet and there should be just the slightest pressure. Then a little playful motion of the lips by the kisser, and the kissed sends through you a thrill that is unction to the soul itself. When you can do this you will be an accomplished kisser. Of course there are other and more advanced stages in the art of kissing. There is that delicious, lovable, abandoned kiss that Mary Anderson gives to Ingomar when she plays Parthenia. Kissing can be made more effective and much more delicious by assuming certain attitudes, such as the actresses assume.—[Philadelphia Record.

A REMARKABLE CURE
—BY—
Haemony, the King of Herbs.

LOS ANGELES, December 4, 1888.
C. H. Webb, Esq., 210 East First Street, Los Angeles, Cal;

DEAR SIR—I wish, for the benefit of sufferers with Rheumatism or Stomach troubles, to subscribe the following. It has been my misfortune to be a sufferer with Rheumatism at different periods of my life. Two attacks lasting nearly two years each.

About four months ago I was prostrated with an aggravated case of Inflammatory Rheumatism in my knees, hands, wrists, etc. Also had Sciatica in my right thigh and some pains in my back. After seven weeks in bed, with a prospect of as many months before me, a friend recommended Haemony. I procured a bottle, and after taking six teaspoonsful, or six doses, in three days, I was able to go down town on a pair of crutches. In a week's time the crutches were put aside, and to-day I am enjoying my usual good health, with no pains or soreness.

I have suffered for years with Dyspepsia, Water Brash, Sour Stomach, etc., and to my surprise and delight, after four bottles of Haemony I am entirely cured, and can eat as healthy as when a child, and am not distressed thereby. I cannot say too much for Haemony.

Very truly yours,
E. B. BUCHER,

NINE HUNDRED ILLEGAL VOTES.

And a Democratic Majority in a West Virginia County Vanished.

BRAMWELL, Mercer county, W. Va., November 30.—The darkest fraud in the recent election in West Virginia is found in the counties of Mercer and McDowell. They are the banner counties, so far as corruption and vote-buying are concerned. The amount of fraud practiced is almost beyond belief.

Look at these figures: In 1880 the total Republican vote of Mercer county cast for Garfield was only 55. In 1884 Blaine polled 461 votes in the county, but he was then 480 behind the vote for Hancock. The Democratic vote showed its natural increase this year, but nevertheless the Republicans have an apparent majority of 39.

A careful canvass of both Mercer and McDowell counties was made the last week before the election. No serious defections were reported anywhere, and both counties were put down for about their usual majorities of 400 to 500. When the startling returns from Mercer and McDowell came in the Democrats at once began an investigation. The first thing they discovered was that there were 900 more votes cast in Mercer county than could be accounted for on the Assessor's books. The Assessor, W. H. Whiten, is an old resident of the county and a most faithful officer. He knows nearly every man, woman and child in the county and made up his rolls this year in July. After travelling over the county from one end to the other he was unable to find 900 men who subsequently presented themselves to vote, and swore that they had been residents of the county for sixty days and of the State for more than twelve months. That there could be any such discrepancy between the rolls of the Assessor and the list of legal voters no one believes for a moment.

The same condition of afiairs exists in McDowell county, adjoining Mercer. The Republican vote took a surprising leap and wiped out the Democratic majority with 174 votes to spare, although the Democrats held their own and made their natural gains.

The Republicans assert that the opening of several coal mines in these two counties, and the building of a new railroad through Mercer, have brought many new residents, mostly Negroes, which accounts for the increased vote and their amazing gain. It is true that several coal mines have been opened, but none has been in operation for more than a year, and consequently the Negroes employed therein could not vote legally in this Ctate on the 6th of last November. The same is also true of the railroad improvement.

RATHER A REVELATION.

Which Explains Why Some Women Have So Many New Dresses.

It may be one or two leaders of fashion in Philadelphia who, after using their elegant garments, turn these over to pawnbrokers, or the "old clo" dealers of South or Bainbridge street, but that any great number, either of New York or Philadelphia women, devote their finery to poor relatives, charity, or junk shop-keepers is simply absurd.

Many theatrical costumers, through the servants of rich people, learn when they have elegant garments to dispose of, and find means of approaching fine folks and buy them at prices ridiculously small, it is true, but more nearly approximating their real value than any that would be offered by pawn-brokers or second-hand dealers of the delectable localities above named. Many leading ladies and gentlemen of the stage (to say nothing of the lesser lights thereof, who are advertised as appearing nightly in the exquisite creations of Worth or other law-givers of fashion in Paris) thus become the fortunate possessors of very elegant dresses. Some of the women of fashion who are said to have new external outfits thrice per every day in the year are the wives and daughters of hard-working professional men, or of men engaged in a "hand to mouth" business and daily struggle to meet the obligations such business entails. The way in which the fine dressing is obtainable in many instances by ladies who are not possessed of inexhaustible gold mines or "bonanza husbands" or fathers, is simply, according to one of their numbers, as follows:

They have arrangements with modistes in leading cities, whereby in consideration of 25 per cent advance on the selling cost of costumes they may need, obtain an immense variety of garments, with the understanding that they are not to be worn in the city where they are first manufactured or exhibited, and are returned unsoiled after once wearing. Philadelphia ladies leave their measures with prominent New York houses who send to their order the gowns they wish knowing their style and tastes. Thus they are frequently as new to their wearers as to the society in which their beauty is first publicly shown. New York women have, we are told, the same understanding with some Philadelphia houses.

This is an entirely legitimate and reasonable explanation of how fine dresses are disposed of after being once worn, and being given by a lady who knows, it is likely to be true; at any rate, is more in harmony with the eternal fitness of things than either the poor relations, the missionary, the pawnbroker or junk shop theory of disposing of garments and still quite fresh and uninjured.—[Leisure Hour.

Aerated Fuel Used in Forging.

The American Machinist of December 1 has an interestiug article on successful experiments made with a furnace used by the Aerated Fuel Company of Springfield, Massachussetts, in burning oil for forging iron, steel, etc. The writer says: "I saw them start with a cold forge and melt 52 lbs. of copper in the ingot, with an expenditure of 4 gallons of oil, costing the Boston and Albany people 2½ cts. per gallon; or, put it in this way, at a cost of a little less than 1·5 of a cent per pound of copper melted, this being very much less than the cost with coals. The application is very simple; all that is necessary to do to the furnace now in use is to cover the grate with fire-brick, and make a hole through the furnace, and place a burner opposite the same. This burner is screwed into a small cylinder, about twelve inches long and six inches in diameter, filled automatically with oil to a certain height, and under about fifteen pounds air pressure, which atomizes the oil, and as it burns making a perfect glow, for on looking into this furnace no blaze can be seen, nothing but an intense white heat, perfectly controlled, lighted with the same facility as natural gas, and when the work was done, as easily extinguished. In fact, this process seems to give the manufacturers outside of the gas belt all the advantages of those that are in, and even more, as, at the present price of oil and natural gas, the oil is claimed to be the cheapest, unless one owns his own wells.

"The writer was lately told by the president of a company now using this system, that for the last two months his oil bill had been, for forging purposes, $83 per month against $425 per month a year ago at this time for coal, and they are now running four more fires than then. He puts it in another way, and said: 'I shall pay for my entire plant and all my oil, and have $1,000 left, above what my coal bill was last year, and we are now doing more work.'

"Samples of welding and the effect this fire has upon cheap grades of iron are very astonishing. I saw a bar ⅝ iron, of poor quality, heated so that it began to drip, then plunged into cold water, and, after cooling, bent cold over the anvil and hammered down close, without a sign of crack or flaw, while the other end, which had not been in the fire, broke under the same treatment. As the manager of one of the largest hammer and forge companies in the country told me, 'The result was perfectly startling, and I would not have believed it if I had not seen it with my own eyes.'"

FIVE VERY RICH GIRLS.

Marriageable American Maidens Who Are Worth $57,000,000.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Louise Bouvier Drexel, niece of A. J. Drexel, to Mr. Edward Morrell of this city, brings up the subject of rich unmarried girls, an interesting subject at any time. Miss Drexel and her two sisters are said to be the three richest unmarried ladies in the United States. This statement is open to dispute. These three ladies were left a fortune of $13,000,000 by their father, the late F. A. Drexel. It was so invested as to bring each an income of $300,000 yearly. Miss Mary Garrett, daughter of the late railroad king, was left $20,000,000.

Miss Garrett is a money maker, and has accumulated a fortune since her father's death, so that the combined fortunes of the Misses Drexel cannot equal hers. It is undoubtedly true that the Misses Drexel are the three wealthiest unmarried sisters in the United States, but it is likely that to Miss Mary Garrett, daughter of the founder of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, and not to either of the Misses Drexel, belongs the distinction of being the richest unmarried lady in America. Miss Garrett is probably a better business woman than either of them. She has the commercial acumen of her father, and her penetration and discrimination in business affairs are much remarked among business men of Baltimore, where her movements in commercial afiairs are watched with much interest. With all this vast wealth at her disposal, Miss Garrett's chief characteristic is her modisty, which hardly seems compatible with the hurly-burly which the management of $20,000,000 would entail. It is well understood that Miss Garrett, and no other, manages her large fortune. Had her brother Robert been as careful a financier the Baltimore and Ohio road might still be controlled by the Garrett estate.

It is said that Miss Garrett, in her efforts to turn an honest penny, religiously avoids the speculative exchanges, having a morbid fear that if she once gets into this whirlpool Gould might drag her down. If Gould ever gets the advantage of Mary Garrett it will have to be in a deal in Government bonds or gilt-edged real estate.

After the Misses Drexel and Miss Garrett comes Miss Nellie Gould as a rich unmarried woman. Miss Gould is much younger than either of the others. Unlike them, she is not rich in her own right, but prospectively she ranks fourth among the wealthy unmarried women of the United States. If her father meets with no reverses—and he seems able to take care of himself—her individual fortune ought not to be far from $20,000,000.

A Philadelphia banker recently said to the writer that the combined fortunes of the three Misses Drexel, counting their accumulations since their father's death, was not far short of $15,000,000. Miss Garrett's fortune must now be $21,000,000, and if Miss Gould can muster $20,000,000, we have $57,000,000 to be divided between five unmarried American girls, either one of them worthy any man's love although she did not have a dollar instead of many millions.—[Philadelphia Letter to Cincinnati Commercial.

Benton's Hair Grower.

All who are BALD, all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF or ITCHING of the scalp, should use Benton's Hair Grower. EIGHTY PER CENT. of those using it have grown hair. It never fails to stop the hair from falling. Through sickness and fevers the hair sometimes falls off in a short time, and though the person may have remained bald for years, if you use Benton's Hair Grower according to directions you are sure of a growth of hair. In hundreds of cases we have procured a good growth of hair on those who have been bald and glazed for years. We have fully substantiated the following facts:

We grow hair in every case, no matter how long bald.
Unlike other preparations, it contains no sugar of lead, or vegetable or mineral poisons.
It is a specific for falling hair, dandruff and itching of the scalp.
The Hair Grower is a hair food, and its composition is almost exactly like the oil which supplies the hair with its vitality.
If your druggists have not got it, we will send it prepaid on receipt of price, $1.00.

CLOTHING

A Bit of Advice!

CUTS OF ALL SIZES ARE ANNOUNCED ALL ALONG THE LINE since we published our determination to bid "good-bye" to the retail clothing business. One bit of advice: Avoid CUTS as you would edged tools; for, like tools, the CUTS are prepared for business.

CLOTHING

It isn't difficult to throw off 10 to 30 per cent. on goods marked that much above their actual value. On top of that advice—no, under it—we want to say that

Next Saturday, December 15th,

We throw on the market the contents of 50 cases of Clothing that were forced on us in New York. The price they will fetch is immaterial to us. The whole stock must go. Value absolutely no object.

☞ TO THE TRADE—We are prepared to make any sacrifice to hasten our withdrawal from the retail branch. A call on us will be decidedly advantageous to you.

HAVE YOU A COLD IN THE HEAD which does not get better? Have you an excessive secretion of mucus matter in the nasal passages? Are you troubled by hawking, spitting, weak and inflamed eyes, frequent soreness of the throat, ringing or roaring in the ears, more or less impairment of the hearing, loss of smell, memory impaired, dullness or dizziness of the head, dryness or heat of the nose? Have you lost all sense of smell? your breath foul? If so, you have the Catarrh. Some have all these symptoms, others only a part.

California Cat-R-Cure

Restores the sense of taste and smell, removes bad taste and unpleasant breath, resulting from catarrh. Easy and pleasant to use. Follow directions and a cure is warranted by all druggists.

RECOMMENDED.

CAPTAIN CHARLES L. DIMON, of New York City, formerly special agent of the Phœnix and Home Insurance Company at San Francisco, Cal., says: "I had been troubled with Chronic Catarrh for twenty years. A friend in Woodland, Cal., recommended your California CAT-R-CURE. I procured a jar, having but little faith in its curative properties; but I must say, after using three jars, I am cured of that disgusting disease. Inclosed find $5, for which send me California CAT-R-CURE for some friends, who are sufferers."

Cable Letter From the German Capital.

THE EAST AFRICAN QUESTION.

Emperor William Consulting Frequently with His Military Chiefs.

[Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD]

BERLIN, December 15.—The debate in the Reichstag on Dr. Winthorst's motion relative to the suppression of the East African slave trade, has dispelled many errors which were current among those who believed Germany would never stir a foot nor spend a penny, directly or indirectly, to assist the East Africa Company over its straits. Though the suppression of slavery was ostensibly the object of the motion, its real aim was simply to elicit the sense of the nation concerning the commercial and political future of the East Africa Company, and to provide a basis for further Government action. It is an open secret that Prince Bismarck was reluctant to embark in a spirited colonial policy until the nation should have clearly expressed its will in the matter. This now has been done in a manner so decidedly as to render the Chancellor's future course clear.

The debate marks an important development in the colonial policy. The Reichstag has declared in favor of progressive action and has completely dispelled the illusion that Germany's action to recover lost ground and to safeguard her imperilled position on the Zanzibar coast would be confined to blockading operations on the sea. The preliminary step having been unanimous, the Reichstag will, on reassembling after Christmas, be presented with a bill framed in accordance with the views of the leaders of friendly groups, which will probably enable the East Africa Company, either as at present organized or in a new form, to recruit a local force of natives for the purpose of retrieving and garrisoning its lost ground, and to establish an anti-slavery blockade on land as well as on the sea. Count Herbert Bismarck apparently draws distinction between the intended activity of a local force of this kind and other forces which are intended for expeditions into the interior; but it is doubtful whether the Arab mind will realize the difference.

COUNT HERBERT'S MAIDEN SPEECH.

Friday's debate in the Reichstag was memorable as the occasion of Count Herbert Bismarck's maiden speech. The greatest interest was shown, and more Deputies were present than on any other day during the session. It was especially remarked that Count Herbert's speech occupied over thirty minutes. It was the event of the day. Count Herbert's voice, enunciation, gestures and abrupt delivery, vividly reminded the audience of his father. At the beginning of his speech, his remarks, though delivered in a loud tone of voice, could scarcely be followed. Afterwards he became calmer and fluent, gaining confidence as he won the sympathy of his audience. Storms of applause greeted his patriotic peroration. Count Herbert cannot exactly be said to have the gift of eloquence, but it is admitted on all sides that he acquitted himself of his task well and handsomely.

RUSSO-GERMAN RELATIONS.

Some of the Radical papers having asserted that Russia had supplied the Soudanese with arms and ammunition, the Russian Ambassador has assured Count Herbert Bismarck that such assertions are totally unfounded.

The attitude of the German and Russian press does not improve. A Hamburg correspondent sent out a sensational on Thursday on the Russo-German relations, which was transmitted by the semi-official telegraph agency, and may accordingly be accepted as authentic. But, unfortunately, in spite of its semi-official character and the strong feeling it displays, the article has not produced much effect either on the Boers or on the public mind, although it is seen from the fact that semi-official writers again threaten to publish the Austro-Russian treaties of 1876 and 1877, that political relations must be strained.

The North German Gazette, referring to the Hamburg article, expresses the hope that Russo-German newspaper war will not be renewed, and intimates that if it is the Russian Panslavist press will be left to stew its own juice.

The Tagblatt advises the public not to be alarmed at a journalistic war, but to wait till the Reichsanseiger publishes the treaties.

WILLIAM STUDYING A DUAL CAMPAIGN.

Emperor William continues to work hard. He receives Generals Von Waldersee and Von Wittich daily. It is reported that the latter is engaged in explaining in minute detail, the possibility of Germany sustaining a war against France and Russia simultaneously.

It is stated that the authorities at Kiel and Wilhemshaven are preparing to send to Africa at the shortest notice a corps of volunteers armed with repeaters and rifled cannon. Foreigners will be admitted to the corps only on condition of having the ability to withstand the climate.

A Hamburg correspondent states that Professor Geffekin's counsel have applied to the Imperial tribunal for their client's release, giving the whole of his property as bail. The application was refused, it being held that the amount of bail offered would not prevent Geffekin from taking flight. His trial is expected to take place at Leipsic in January.

ANTI-SLAVERY CRUSADE IN AUSTRIA.

The anti-slavery crusade has been successfully commenced in Austria. At the instigation of Cardinal Lavigere, a meeting on the subject has been held at Vienna, under the auspices of one of the most influential Catholic societies. The Papal Nuncio attended the meeting, which was presided over by Prince Von Werde. Two clerical speakers declared that Austria should join with the other nations in the anti-slavery movement.

Prince Alexander of Hesse, uncle of Grand Duke Ludwig, is dead.

THE SOUDAN.

Uncertainty as to the Capture of Emin and Stanley.

LONDON, December 15.—In the Commons, Lord Randloph Churchill asked whether, if the reports of the capture of Emin Pasha and Stanley were true, the government would negotiate with Osman Digna for the release of the Europeans at Khartoum before beginning hostilities.

Goschen, acting government leader, replied that the information received by the government was so uncertain that it would be impossible to suspend operations for the relief of Suakin during the many weeks that would elapse before the fate of the explorers could be ascertained.

John Morley pressed the government to suspend operations at Suakin until Monday.

Goschen replied that the request could not be complied with, but he promised that no instructions would be given to hurry operations.

Morley—May I take it, then, that the government will do the best it can to prevent the commencement of hostilities without tying the hands of the military authorities?

Goschen—I cannot tie the hands of the military authorities. I shall not go an inch beyond the statement I have already made.

Gladstone made a speech congratulating the Liberals on the brightening prospects. He protested against the attempt to conquer the Soudan as an adventure as hopeless as an attempt to fight nature.

BRUSSELS, December 15.—The Belgian Consul at Suakin telegraphs to the government that the military and political authorities there believe the story that Emin Pasha is captured and his force dispersed, but are in doubt about the capture of Stanley.

SUAKIN, December 15.—The date 1869 is stamped upon the cartridges which accompanied Osman Digna's letter announcing the capture of Emin Pasha and the white traveler.

FRANCE AND THE CANAL.

The Committee Rejects the Postponement Measure.

PARIS, December 15.—The committee appointed by the Chamber of Deputies to consider the bill postponing the paying of the Panama canal liabilities has rejected the measure.

While the committee was examining the Panama bill, Peytral, Minister of Finance, stated that the new Societe Etudes was prepared to constitute itself within a fortnight, with a capital of 10,000,000 or 15,000,000 francs, to continue the operations of the old company. This would precede the proposed new company, the capital stock of which would be fixed according to the result of the inquiries, and which would complete the canal. Provisional directors, with full power, would continue the work, pending the formation of the new company.

The Committee also rejected the counter scheme mentioned by M. Peytral for the constitution of a new company. The Committee will report to the Chamber that in their opinion the Chamber has no right to legislate upon such matters. The Cabinet has decided not to withdraw the bill. It has also resolved not to offer a substitute measure providing for a more precise settlement of the Canal Company's affairs.

When the report of the Committee was made to the Chamber of Deputies, it proceeded immediately to a discussion of it. Lias, in behalf of the minority, regretted that the Committee had declined to hear the temporary administration of the company, so that they could arrive at a correct knowledge of the situation.

Jumel, reporter for the Committee, explained that the Committee desired only to examine the question from the standpoint of the responsibility of the Government and the Chamber. He was ready, if so desired, not as the reporter of the Committee, but simply as a Deputy, to furnish a complete statement of the position of the company.

M. Merilon, dwelling on the importance of the subject, urged the adoption of the bill.

M. Peytral, Minister of Finance, supported the bill in the interest of 870,000 subscribers to Panama stock.

M. Junel again arose and objected to the bill as useless, and expressed the belief that the Company's position would be better three months hence than now.

M. Peytral, in replying to a question stated that 86,000,000 francs had been deposited in the Credit Foncier as a guarantee for the payment of the lottery bonds.

M. Christophele, director of the Credit Foncier, here interposed to say that this sum was not now at the disposal of the Panama Company. Thereupon the bill was rejected, without any attempt to discuss its clauses, by a vote of 262 against 188.

Found Guilty.

Harry Wicks, who shot Arad Howe in front of a saloon last July, and whose trial for assault to murder has been in progress before Judge Cheney for the last few days, was yesterday found guilty of an assault with a deadly weapon.

John White was yesterday found guilty of the charge of burglary by a jury in Judge Cheney's Court. One night last August White was caught in the bedroom where William Morgan and his wife were sleeping. He had awakened the woman by upsetting a glass of water in her face. One of the drawers to the bureau was found pulled out and the man's conduct showed plainly what his purpose had been.

A Severe Accident.

The many friends of T. W. Ferguson will be sorry to learn of the accident which occurred to him on Thursday afternoon. Mr. Ferguson has had thirty years experience as inspector of bridges without an accident, but on Thursday last as he was walking over the old San Gabriel bridge he stepped on a broken lateral brace and fell a distance of ten feet, an Oregon pine tie striking him in the small of the back. He also broke his left wrist in the fall, and now lies helpless at his home, No. 649 Olive street, where he was removed.

Depot Jottings.

The Daly Company have secured berths on to-night's train for San Francisco.

The Santa Fe overland was about five hours late yesterday, the delay occurring east of the Needles.

Special coaches will be added to No. 20 to-night for the accommodation of the excursion to Bakersfield.

Mr. Fred Perris, the Santa Fe's able chief engineer for the California system, was in town yesterday.

Judge Egan, the Santa Fe's genial right of way attorney, came in from San Juan Capistrano yesterday.

Mr. H. Van Arnam, the Southern Pacific's Chicago passenger agent, will go to Bakersfield with the excursion this evening.

The recent heavy rains in Western Arizona caused slight washouts on the Tucson division and No. 20 was an hour late last night.

Two of the expected lumber steamers from up north and a boat laden with bituminous rock from San Luis Obispo arrived at San Pedro yesterday.

The surveyors for the Stockton, Fresno and Southern Railroad will commence work to-morrow. Their first stakes will be driven just outside the Stockton city limits.

Mr. W. H. Snedaker, the Denver and Rio Grande's agent here, is at Ensenada in company with General Passenger Agent J. H. Bennett. They are expected back in Los Angeles to-morrow.

CONTESTED ELECTION CASES.

The Recount of the Ballots Still Going On — The State at Large.

[Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD]

SAN FRANCISCO, December 15.—The steamship City of New York, which arrived yesterday, had among her cargo 370 cases of prepared opium, representing $151,700 in duty to be paid to the United States Government. The entire consignment, including the duty, is valued at $250,000.

Surveyor-General Hammond calls for sealed proposals for making the recently authorized surveys of government land near Elsinore, San Diego county. Bids will be received up to January 14th, and the work specified must be done before June 30th.

A call has been issued for a convention of raisin producers and dealers, to be held in this city January 19th next. Its chief objects are to secure the establishment of the present system of marking California raisins with foreign marks, and to cease contracting for vineyard products as a whole, regardless of quality or variety.

A dispatch from Yaquina to-day states that the steamer Yaquina Bay still remains on the rocks alongside the jetty. She is gradually breaking up. A diving suit has arrived but it was not used, as the water that rushes into her pours out just as rapidly with each receding wave, showing that there are large breaks or holes in her hull. There seems to be no further hope for the vessel.

Judge Darwin to-day made a motion for a new trial in the case of Willie Stanley, convicted of obtaining money under false pretenses from Henry Parsons, and whose sentence has been postponed several times. The grounds alleged for the new trial were contained in the wording of Judge Murphy's charge to the jury, which, it is claimed, was not specific enough. Judge Murphy took the case under advisement.

An Examiner Washington special says: Admiral Luce, commanding the North Atlantic squadron, will be retired next month on account of age. A number of names have been suggested for the command, among them being Commodore John Irwin, President of the Board of Inspection at the Mare Island Navy-yard. Commodore Belknap, commandant of the Navy-yard at Mare Island, has been ordered to this city for promotion to the rank of Rear Admiral.

Contested Elections.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 15.—Dr. O'Donnell gained twenty-one votes to-day in the recount of the vote for Mayor. His total gain for the week has been 185, with the count completed in half the districts.

The Republican State Central Committee held a short meeting here this evening to consider the proposition of having a general recount of the vote cast in this city at the recent election. No definite action was taken in the matter, but it was agreed that all the Republican candidates who believe that a recount would result in their election, should hold a conference with representatives of the State and County Committees Monday, and consider the advisabilty of commencing proceedings for a recount in their cases.

Sheriff Lord, of Nevada county, the defeated candidate for re-election, demands a recount. His petition will be heard December 27th.

The Indictment Must Stand.

STOCKTON, December 15.—The District Attorney recently made a motion to dismiss the case of the people against Henry I. Kowalsky, indicted for libel, on the ground of insufficiency of evidence to convict. Judge Baldwin to-day denied the motion. The indictment was for publishing in a San Francisco paper the statement that David S. Terry attempted to assassinate Deputy United States Marshal Hopkins.

Jury Locked Up.

SAN JOSE, Cal., December 15.—District Attorney Moore made the closing argument in the Curdts murder trial to-day. The jury retired at 1:15. At 9:20 this evening they came into court and said they were unable to agree. They were locked up for the night.

Indications.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 15.—Indications for twenty-four hours for California: Fair weather in Southern California; variable winds, generally southerly, in northern portion; nearly stationary temperature.

Coast Cullings.

Bell Boy will run at Pacific Beach Driving Park, San Diego, on Christmas day.

Hon. Charles Boyle, recently appointed Chief Justice of Washington Territory, died Saturday night from a complication of diseases caused by overwork.

The Victoria, B. C., Board of Aldermen has granted D. W. Higgins, J. D. Warren and others a franchise for fifty year to lay a track for a street car, string wires for electric lighting and other purposes throughout the city.

Dr. D. B. Northrup has received judgment against San Diego county for $1,000, for professional services in holding a post mortem examination. The claim was refused by the Supervisors on the ground of its being exorbitant. Judgment was rendered in the Superior Court by default.

NEW AND NOVEL.

An Exhibition Will Take Place the Following Week at 51 North Spring Street, of the Backus Portable Steam Heater.

It is something new and novel, a heater that can be used in parlor, office, dining-room, sleeping room, in fact, anywhere that heat is wanted. It has the appearance of an open coal grate, and is elegant in design and finish. They are arranged for gas or coal-oil. When oil is used one gallon will last ten hours, producing a greater heat than an ordinary coal stove, and the flame, though generated by coal oil, is by a special process supplied with vapor from a water reservoir which the wick tubes pass through, rendering it pure and perfectly odorless. The oil tank is covered with an asbestos lining, and a water tank over the oil keeps it cool and makes it perfectly safe. Another good feature is that the heater can be used for cooking purposes the same as an ordinary coal oil stove. It will save money, time and trouble, and save the wear and tear on your temper engendered by the usual battle with ashes, coal-dust and wood. An examination of its merits will convince any unprejudiced mind that it is exactly the thing for a heater. This heater can also be seen in operation at the warerooms of John H. F. Peck, coast agent, 293 North Main street.

The Ghost of a Chance

"Materializes" and becomes a veritable reality when health, a will o' the wisp often chased in vain, is sought by the nervous, dyspeptic, bilious invalid through the agency of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Looming in the distance at first, it is surely drawn toward the sufferer by the bitters' potent influence. It incorporates itself with his being. It is seen reflected in the hue of the countenance, the animation of the eye. It is felt in a sense of renewed vigor, in the restoration of nerve tranquility and digestion, and undisturbed nightly repose. What person, suffering from any of the maladies to which the Bitters are adapted, will postpone the means of cure, knowing it can be relied upon? Dyspepsia, constipation, malarial disorders, rheumatism, biliousness, kidney inactivity are certainly conquered by it.

LOS ANGELES COUNTY.

This Imperial Domain and Its Products.

THE PRICES OF OUR LANDS.

The Best Place in the World for the Farmer to Pursue His Various Avocations.

The statements here following are made not for any purpose of belittling any part of the world, much less any portion of the Golden State, but merely to present plainly the facts concerning Los Angeles county, her arable area of lands, the prices at which they are held, their various productions and the profits of farming in this section.

To state the cost of land is far from telling the whole story. One has to look at what can be made out of any given investment and what speculative future there is for the property under consideration. Some land is dear if one has to pay the taxes on it, and some land is cheap at many hundred dollars per square foot. In studying any section to get to the situation one must learn what its lands will propuce, where its market is, what facilities there are of reaching the markets and what its products will sell for.

The matter of facilities for reaching the markets and their closeness to the producer are prime factors in the problem. It would be very hard to find any other section so advantageously situated as Los Angeles is in these respects. Our farmers find a market for nearly all they produce here at home. Butter, eggs and cheese; poultry, bacon and hams; beef, mutton, lamb and veal, are all imported here as the local supply is far below the demand of the population. The uninitiated might suppose that fruits would be a drug in our markets. As a matter of fact oranges and grapes for table use are about the only fruits we produce in excess of the home demand. Peaches, apricots, apples, pears, cherries and berries are imported into Los Angeles. There is a home market for all the hay our farmers produce, and so there is for all the wheat they grow. For barley, whatever surplus may be raised, the market is near at hand in the Territories to the East. This condition is sure to continue. The population of the section is increasing beyond any parallel in the history of the human race. There is besides an immense floating population here winter and summer. These people are tourists and visitors. So far as we are concerned they are like the lilies of the field—they toil not, neither do they spin. They are non-producers; and yet they must be fed. They can consume as much as do the hardest working people in the land. In five years from now this section will not be producing enough to prevent vast sums of money from being sent abroad. It would not if the increase of population were to stop, and at the rate this is going on, no sort of development will be able to do it in ten, nor in twenty years. In fact, as matters have gone with us, the non-producing population is increasing far more rapidly than the products of the soil. This is an incident of the great army of invalids, mostly people in good circumstances, who come here in search of the health or comfort which are found in our matchless climate.

OUR TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES.

Any thoughtful person who will turn to a map of Los Angeles county will find the city set near the center of a great plain which stretches from twenty to sixty miles in all directions, and hemmed in on all sides, but that along the ocean by a range of high mountains which cut off rough winds and at the same time act as a great reservoir to store up water for the fertilization of the millions of acres that lie between their base and the ocean. This plain is in the shape of a great horseshoe whose toe is at Gorgonio Pass, in San Bernardino county, nearly 70 miles from the ocean, and whose open side, 60 miles long, lies along the ocean from the Malibu mountains, above Santa Monica, to San-Juan-by-the-Sea, down near San Diego. Four streams from the mountains flow through this plain from the mountains to the ocean. From Los Angeles as the hub of the wheel, in all directions like spokes radiate a score of railroads to all points in the county. Here is Santa Monica by the sea, 16 miles away, with two lines of railroad between it and Los Angeles, and the near prospect of two more. Roads run to the coast at Ballona, at Redondo Beach, at San Pedro, at Long Beach, and soon will run to Alamitos Bay. This is all along a line of coast not twenty miles in extent, and all these lines center in Los Angeles City. There are two lines running up the San Fernando Valley, not counting the motor road to Glendale. There are three independent lines all along the San Gabriel Valley, and two independent lines traverse the whole length of the Santa Ana Valley. There are five or six other lines projected penetrating the several parts of the area under consideration. In a word the plain around Los Angeles City is covered with a network of railroads which reach all portions of the surrounding territory; and the beauty of it is that three of these lines are of the transcontinental order, which connect us with all points in the East. Such transportation facilities are not known in any other county in this State. The question of railroad monopoly has been solved for all time to come in this part of the State by the only possible solvent, competition. To make this situation impregnable, there is the ocean at the doors of Los Angeles, with the Port of San Pedro and three or four other places at sixteen to twenty miles from the city, where a wharf can be constructed and shipping done with great ease. When we do produce a surplus of any sort of crops there will be no difficulty in getting them to the markets not only of the American Union, but to those of the wide world.

THE NET RESULT OF THIS.

To sum up all this, it appears that here is a city, Los Angeles, with nearly 100,000 population to feed. There are a score of other centers of population ranging all the way from 12,000 inhabitants, as in Pasadena, to 5,000, as in Pomona and Santa Ana, 2,000 as in Anaheim, and so on down to places of 1,000 and less, all to be supplied with the various necessities or comforts and luxuries of life. The total population of the county is now about 175,000, of which three-fourths are found in the cities. There is no part of the country which is out of reach of railroads. Nearly every farm in it is within a few miles of a station, and most of them are close to two or three competing lines, anxious to transport the products of the soil to the marts where the consumer purchases the daily supplies for his table.

This is decidedly an attractive display of advantages. The city will go on growing for a long time to come. There will be no interruption to its development until it reaches a quarter of a million of souls. The various other towns will grow in like ratio, and there will always be found a large city and suburban population which must draw its supplies from the surrounding country.

WHAT THE SOIL PRODUCES.

What will grow on these lands? It would be easier to detail what will not grow. There is not a month in the year when our market is not supplied with fruits from our own orchards. Beginning with January, and one finds the orange crop just beginning to come liberally into market. This fruit is found in the markets until June and July. The main portion of the crop is marketed in February, March, April, May and June. Lemons and limes mature all the year. In January strawberries are found in our markets. This fruit is in its prime in March and April and all the months until October again. It is found in small supply in all the other months. By June and July early pears, peaches, cherries, apricots and apples are found. Nectarines come on a little later. In all the months following until November these fruits are in their prime. Apricots and nectarines drop out in August, but peaches are good until November. Apples and pears are now on the trees, and the winter varieties grow here to perfection and the markets should be supplied with them until the early spring. Grapes are ripe in June for some varieties and all through July and the succeeding months until Thanksgiving day they are abundant. Blackberries and raspberries appear in July, and there were some of the latter fruit in the markets two weeks ago. Thus, there is a continued succession of fruits during all the months in the year. And the crops of all sorts of fruit are as heavy as they are in any, the most favored part of the world, and the fruits in their single specimen attain as great perfection as elsewhere. In fact there are few places where the products of the orchard can at all compare with ours.

Of course all the vegetables known to modern life grow here. Not only that, but they all grow to absolute perfection. And, strangest of all, they mature at all times of the year. One is not limited to one crop a year. The farmer in this section can crop his land every month or two in the year if he so desires. He can have three or four crops of potatoes. He can have cabbages coming to market every day in the year. Green peas, beans and tomatoes are ripening these December days just as they did in June. Cauliflower, celery and all the other choicer varieties of vegetables mature here all through the winter. The farmer can harvest a crop of potatoes in the early spring, then plant the land to corn which he may gather in the fall, in time to plant potatoes again and gather these when his Christmas dinner comes.

Turning to the coarser sorts of husbandry, of course barley and wheat are harvested but once a year. This sort of agriculture pays here as well or better than elsewhere. Forty sacks of barley—that is eighty bushels—to the acre is not an exceptional yield. Half that amount of wheat is not unusual. Corn is one of the most profitable of our crops. It does not come to absolute perfection in all localities, but in the proper ones it yields more abundantly than in any of the best sections of Illinois or Missouri. Hay is one of our crack crops. The favorite fodder plant here is alfalfa, a sort of clover brought from Chili. It will grow on any of our mesa lands and produce one crop as heavy as the best clover crop known in the West. It is, however, usually sown on damp or irrigated lands. Here it is perennial, and yields its crops nearly every month in the year. It is certain for from six to eight crops each year. The yield is about two tons at each mowing, or ten to fourteen tons per acre each year. There is no fact more indisputable than these about our alfalfa lands. There are thousands and hundreds of thousands of acres in this county suitable for this sort of industry. It has no parallel in the world anywhere. There is no such land on the footstool for dairy purposes as this. It is good for hogs, turkeys, poultry, or any sort of live stock.

All the nutritious roots, turnips, carrots, parsnips and beets grow here as they grow in no other section. Like the alfalfa, beets are perrenial—they grow on year after year until they attain gigantic proportions. Melons, pumpkins and squash attain a size and perfection here which astonishd all beholders. Watermelons reach 100 pounds. Pumpkins grow to twice that weight. Beets that make the beam kick at 100 pounds are not rare. Los Angeles county is noted for its fine horses. It will become as noted the world over for its other live stock. It will be the great dairying region of the Union in a few years.

WHAT WILL THESE CROPS PAY?

The great point is what will these crops pay the producer? They will pay as such enterprises pay nowhere else in the world. The citrus fruits are the most profitable of all. Let no one imagine this poetic and profitable industry is at an end in this section. The scale has made great ravages in the orchards, it is true, but by no means universally. This section will market as many oranges this year as in any one in its history. Not less than 2,000 car-loads, each of 360 boxes, about 175 oranges to the box, will be exported this winter. At Riverside, at Pomona, in some orchards in the San Gabriel valley, at Santa Ana, Orange and Anaheim, the yield is as large as ever. At Riverside and Pomona the scale is not known. In many small orchards in the infected districts the trees are as clean as ever they were. This pest will be suppressed. The energy and intelligence of the American people, the very flower of which is engaged in this fruit industry, will not succumb to the scale. He will succumb to the energy of our orchardists.

There are 100 budded orange trees usually planted on an acre. The yield from these trees is not less than two boxes to the tree or 200 boxes an acre. The fruit is worth $2 per box on the tree, or $400 per acre. It is no rare thing even now to market $500 and $600 worth of oranges from an acre of trees. Lemons pay quite as well, and limes fall no whit behind either.

Here it may be well to remark that there is no section of the United States outside of Florida, a small area in Louisiana, and Southern California where citrus fruit culture can be made to succeed. The claim is made that this enterprise can be successfully pursued in Northern California, but the statements will not bear close investigation. The unwary may be duped by misrepresentation, but in time—and it will not take long—all will learn, some to thier sorrow that these statements are true. There may be small pockets in the hills of peculiar situation where small orchards will succeed, but beware. To judge from the trees planted in such places that others will flourish in the region around is a delusion.

The grape is another industry of great promise and profit. It, too, has been attacked by a parasite which has somewhat impaired the vineyards. That, too, will be conquered. A remedy will be found in the future, and there will be shipped to the East thousands of carloads of our grapes a year. Much more of the crop will be dried for raisins or cushed for wine and distilled into brandy. Grapes pay $100 per acre a year, if the crop is sold, uncured. If dried and packed in proper shape for raisins, or crushed and cured into wine the profit is twice or three times as great. The largest winery in France is the La Fitte. There are fifty-one acres in the property. The sale of wines from this little patch per year comes to $100,000. There is no reason why the same methods pursued in the handling of our crop shall not reach as happy results.

There is no necessity of explaining how large results are to be reached from the cultivation of the deciduous fruits. These products are excellently suited to our soil and climate. The fruits come to great perfection here and find a market at home. The writer has offered in times past $1,000 per acre for a suburban peach orchard, and been refused. The owner stated that he was making good interest on that price by selling the products of his orchard. From berries there are farmers near this city who sell from small patches from $40 worth per week in the summer down to $5 or $10 worth in the winter. There are men near Los Angeles who make a living and have money to spare from the sale of the berries from a few acres.

Reference to the alfalfa crops above will prove how profitable common farming is hereabouts. Land that yields six to eight crops, ten to fourteen tons of hay a year, is worth money. There is a home market for it all. The HERALD a few days ago published a letter from a Los Angeles farmer who cut eight crops of alfalfa hay this year from five and a half acres of land, and got eleven tons at each cutting, or eighty-eight tons per year. He sold it at $10 per ton, or $880 for his hay crop from five and a half acres. The man who feeds his alfalfa to cows and sells the milk in this city, or makes it into butter for the home market, will make profits whose figures will seem marvelous to any one who reads them. These out-lines will be sufficient to show what may be made from our lands.

AREA OF OUR LANDS AND PRICES.

There are 2,000,000 acres of good land in Los Angeles county. These range widely as to grade, uses and prices. The best lands with water, on the highest slopes, suitable for the cultivation of oranges, are justly held at high prices. Such lands are in most cases near towns of greater or less population. The climate, the water supply, the absence of mud after the heaviest rains, and the profits of the industry all combine to draw many people to these localities. Some of this land planted and with improvements on it, in such plases as Riverside and Pomona is held at $1,000 to $5,000 per acre It is strictly suburban property, and many a little patch will produce sufficient fruit to pay interest even on the highest price. Raw lands of such grade in such localities may be bought as low as $100 per acre, and is sometimes held at $1,000 because of its speculative prospects for business or suburban residences.

But discounting these factors outside and above the uses of the lands for the ordinary avocations of the husbandman, and our lands are not held high. Here are some of the figures as quoted on the schedules of the agents:

One dealer writes to the HERALD: "I will sell 600 acres of raisin land at $50 per acre; it is Section 11, Township 1 S., R. 6 W., S. B. M., at the foot of the Cucamonga Mountain, half a mile east of Etiwanda Station, on the line of the California Central Railroad, one third cash, balance on time to suit, at six per cent. per annum."

There is no better orange or grape land in the county than this along the highest part of the mesa close to the foot of the mountains. There is plenty of land suitable for these most profitable of our industries to be had at for from $50 to $100 per acre. As stated above some of these lands are held at five times these prices. Like this Etiwanda land most of these lands are near one or two stations.

MONTE VISTA.

Monte Vista is situated fifteen miles north of Los Angeles on a direct line. From Roscoe Station, on the Southern Pacific, fourteen miles north of this city, the distance is four and a half miles east. The elevation is 1,500 feet. The climate is dry and equable. The average summer temperature is 69 degrees; that of winter 42 degrees. The summer average for humidity is about 55 degrees, and for winter 58 degrees. The valley of Monte Vista lies east of the Big Tajunga, and embraces about 3,000 acres, of which 2,300 are in the Monte Vista tract. The main chain of the Sierra Madras are on the north; the Verdugo mountains on the south. The San Fernando valley lies to the west, and Crescenta and La Cañadas and Pasadena to the east. The soil of Monte Vista is a rich mountain loam, mixed with sand and fine gravel, making it unsurpassed for the highest grades of oranges, lemons, olives, figs and all deciduous fruits and berries. All fruit grown in this favored valley sells at 30 to 100 per cent. advance over the same kinds grown elsewhere. This is one of the valleys in Southern California where cherries will grow to perfection. It is also the home of the fig, orange and olive. Frost and fog are here absolutely harmless. The water supply is drawn from the Big Tajunga, and is unsurpassed both in quantity and quality by any tract in South California. The best hotel in the county is here maintained for the comfort of guests, and the charges are so moderate that none need go further.

The tract is subdivided into 10 and 20 acre blocks, with 1½, 2½ and 5 acre subdivisions. There are 28 miles of streets 75 feet wide. The water is brought to the tract in iron pipes. It is the purpose of the owner to offer every inducement to actual settlers who will make good improvements. People with families are particularly wanted, and a discount is given for every child of school age. Prices are low, quality considered. Fine church, store, school, etc; daily mail, two stages each day connecting with Santa Barbara trains at Roscoe. Two railroads are projected through Monte Vista, and within three years there will be employment here for several hundred people in the fruit business. Any family can live well on five acres. Home-seekers wishing a delightful climate and almost every other advantage are invited to visit Monte Vista and compare it with any place in the world. EAST SAN GABRIEL.

A year ago last May the San Gabriel Land and Water Company came into existence and began to make improvements about the quaint old town where the Franciscan fathers made their first abiding place in Los Angeles county. Of this company, H. H. Markham is President; N. Vanderlip, Vice-President; E. P. Johnson, Treasurer, and A. L. Burbank, Secretary. Its Board of Directors are H. H. Markham, F. D. Sanborn, A. L. Burbank, N. Vanderlip and C. H. Bradley. The spot whidh is designated as East San Gabriel lies about half a mile east of the old Mission and nine miles from the city of Los Angeles. Fifteen hundred acres are covered by the tract, including the property formerly in the Titus, Ford, Gibbs, Clapp, Bradbury and Hall & Stillson ranches. Since the land came into the possession of this company improvements of all kinds have been steadily pushed forward upon it, until to-day it is one of the most promising, as well as one of the most beautiful of the suburbs adjoining the city of Los Angeles. Through the center of the tract runs a boulevard, 100 feet in width, extending on through adjoining property for eight miles. Streets are laid out and graded in all directions, and over $3,000 worth of cement sidewalks have been put down. The Southern Pacific, which runs through the southern part of the tract, has erected a two-story depot, one of the most elegant to be found in Southern California. There are a number of fine residences here and there throughout the district, and work is beginning on stores and other buildings.

But the chief attraction of East San Gabriel, and one which will attract to it large numbers of tourists, is the beautiful hotel which is now completed and filled with well-satisfied guests. This elegant building, erected at an expense of $100,000, stands in the midst of an old oak grove looking out upon mountain scenery of exceptional beauty. It is furnished with every form of modern improvements and is run in a way to make it forever popular as a place of winter and summer resort.

The advantageous location of the town of East San Gabriel is shown by its railway connections. Besides the Southern Pacific, which has already been mentioned, it extends north to within a mile of the Santa Fe route and the San Gabriel Valley Rapid Transit runs through the center of the tract.

A new feature of the town's development is the establishment of the carriage works of Fish Brothers, of Racine, Wis., which are soon to go into operation on this land. A verbal agreement with the managers of the enterprise (in addition to the written and guaranteed contract by which the works are located at East San Gabriel) is to the effect that the employees of the company are to be married men—a fact of importance in determining the character of the new immigration. It ought also to be added that negotiations are in progress for the establishment of a newspaper in East San Gabriel.

The title to the land is clear and includes ample water. The company is especially fortunate in the amount of water which it has at its disposal. Special inducements and advantages will be offered to purchasers who expect to build or make permanent improvements. For information apply to

A. L. BURBANK,
Secretary of the Company, 20 South Spring street.

This is strictly suburban property, suitable for the residences of the most fastidious people. Some of it is held at what may appear to be rather high prices, but when one looks at the advantages to be secured here and the prospects of the place, it will not seem that too much is asked for it. It will not be long until there is a scramble for this property at $1,000 per acre.

PACOIMA AND ITS DAM.

Pacoima is about twenty miles north of Los Angeles City, in the choicest part of the San Fernando valley. Here are many thousands of acres of as fine fruit lands as there are in the country. The orange, lemon, lime and raisin grape will flourish on these. A dam, the like of which is not known in the world, has been built to supply thousands of acres with water. It is built below the surface of the ground in order to force to the top the subterranean stream which flows below. It cost $30,000. It is 600 feet long and 50 feet deep. A large supply of water in thus obtained for domestic and irrigation purposes. The lands of this company lie along the slope from the mountains, and none of them lie more than two or three miles from the railroad stations. The climate is perfect, and close to the place are churches, schools, and all the best influences of modern life. These lands outside the town sites are sold as low as low as $250 per acre in small parcels. The sales are made on long time at low rates of interest. Great inducements are offered actual settlers who will put good improvements on their purchases. Persons accustomed to pay $40 an acre for wheat lands producing fifteen to twenty bushels per acre, may think these prices high. But when respect is had to what grows here, and what profits are reaped, it will appear that twenty acres of these lands are better than 160 of the others.

INGLEWOOD.

Inglewood is one of the most select and promising suburbs of Los Angeles. It is about ten miles from Los Angeles, and a little more than half way between the city and the ocean. General John C. Fremont has his home here, and the great Freeman College of Applied Sciences is now being built at this place. It is a station, and the junction of the roads to Port Ballona and Redondo. A great patent brick kiln is a new industry recently established at this point. Inglewood is a flourishing place, with a bright future before it. There is plenty of land surrounding it to make it a town, and it has an excellent supply of good water. Lands not remote from this point may be had at prices ranging at from $100 upwards. This land is suited to all classes of horticuiture, and is so close to the large city of Los Angeles that a ready market for the products of the soil is always assured. The farmer may here save all expenses of transportation for the reason that he can drive his truck into the city and dispose of it to the consumer. Schools, churches, libraries and all that enobles life and makes it most enjoyable are to be found at the door, as it were, of the dweller at Inglewood, as is the case with almost all other points in Los Angeles county.

REDONDO BEACH.

About twenty miles from Los Angeles is Redondo Beach. Captain J. C. Ainsworth, of Oakland, and Captain R. R Thompson, of San Francisco, have recently acquired a controlling interest in Redondo Beach and in Inglewood townsites. These gentlemen have had large experience in shipping business, as they were the founders of the great Oregon Navigation Company, with headquarters at Portland. It is their intention to build a large wharf at Redondo at which shipping may be done. It is the intention to make this a place for the loading and unloading of ocean-going vessels of the largest capacity. Mr. Mathews, the architect, is here now on complete arrangements for a hotel which will, if possible, be completed by August next. The wharf is complete with the exception of the warehouse and hoisting apparatus which have been ordered built at once. About five miles of water-works are nearly completed and pipes, etc. will be laid at once. The Company propose to go on with the improvement of the place regardless of what may be done in the way of sales of property, believing that this as well as other interests in Southern California are certain of ultimate success.

The presence of such men as the Messrs. Ainsworth and Thompson, the one a resident of Oakland and the other of San Francisco, shows in what esteem this section is held. They are intimately acquainted with the resources of the whole Coast, and when they, the other day, put their money into this property, they acted with eyes wide open, and did so because they feel well assured that there is a great future before Los Angeles, and before all this southern country. Those who buy a small farm near Redondo or Inglewood, or who select their homes in either of these towns, will share in the prosperty incident to the great development which these far-seeing and practical men know lies in their future.

HESPERIA.

The Hesperia Syndicate owns Township 5, N. R. 4 W., S. B. M. Also sections 2, 4, 6, 8, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 28, 30, 32 and 34, Township 5, N. R. 4 W., S. B. M., less about 2,000 acres, heretofore sold. The syndicate owns, by prior appropriation, and by riparian rights, five thousand inches of water from the Hesperia river, formerly called the East Fork of the Mojave river, or Deep creek.

This water is taken out in a ditch, constructed in the granite mountain side for nearly four miles. The ditch is granite, plastered with Portland cement, and will last for thousands of years. It is indestructible, except as against mechanical force. The ditch ends high up on the mountain side, overlooking Hesperia plains. From this a 14-inch diameter steel and iron pipe extends for over six miles to the lands of the Company, furnishing a large supply of pure mountain water for domestic use, and for irrigating purposes.

The source of water supply is the high mountain water-shed, covered with a heavy growth of fine pine timber, in the shadows of which the winter snows slowly melt until late in the season. In this way a large and permanent supply of water is assured. In times of rain the stream of water is one and two hundred feet wide, and several feet deep. There is abundance of winter water to irrigate a hundred thousand acres, and summer water for all the lands of the syndicate.

This water supply is fully mentioned from the fact that land or colony enterprises in Southern California are somewhat dependent on the water supply. If the water will sustain one thousand people, that is the limit of the colony; if it will supply fifty thousand, that is the limit. The Hesperia supply is considered one of the best in Southern California. Parties contemplating investment should examine the water supply, and conduits, and see for themselves the extent and certainty of the supply.

The lands.—The lands lie principally on a mesa, or a table on the northern slope of the Sierra Madre mountains. The A. T. & S. F. R. R. runs through the middle of the Township, from north to south. About the center of T. 4 N., R. 4 W., Hesperia City is laid out. It is a beautiful townsite, on a smooth, wide spreading dome of land overlooking the lands of the Mojave plains, encircled in the distance from the east to the south and southwest, by the snow-capped mountains. The air is dry and pure, free from fogs and moisture, a magnificent region for sun-curing all fruits. The soil is a rich, yellowish-red loam, deep and rich, underlaid with a clay formation. It is of such a character that moisture will be long retained. A large part of the soil is covered with a heavy growth of mountain cedar or jupiter. The balance is covered with a growth of shrubs, yucca and bunch grass.

Sales—The sales of town lots and farm lands have reached the sum of $187,000, over one-fourth of which has been paid in cash. The farm lands are now selling at from $100 to $150 per acre, with water. Town lots at from $150 to $350 each.

Summary—The 30,000 acres of unsold land, with water, may be safely calculated to net $100 per acre or $3,000,000. The water system, when the lands are sold, will be the property of the company and may be estimated at a future value of $7,000,000.

THE POTRERO GRANDE, ETC.

Richard Garvey offers for sale, adjoining the Alhambra and San Gabriel, about ten miles east of Los Angeles, in the far-famed San Gabriel valley, several large tracts of land lying in the ranches known as the Potrero Grande, Filepe Lugo and others. There are 2,500 acres of these lands in one body, the best in the county for all kinds of fruits, with plenty of water with the land. Some of the land lies in the bottoms of the San Gabriel river and is known as damp land. It will produce six to eight crops of alfalfa a year without any irrigation. It will produce in the spring a crop of potatoes, later on one of corn, and then one of potatoes. Hops, beans and peas flourish here. There is no better land for the English walnut, one of the best paying fruits we grow. These lands are only ten miles from this great city. They lie close to railroads, and are within sight of all kinds of churches and of the best schools in the country. No better educational facilities are to be found in New England than obtain here. The farmer can here find land for any purpose he desires. Citrus fruit, deciduous fruit, vegetables, dairy farming, hay growing, hops, corn, in fact all the manifold branches of horticulture and agriculture, including stock raising, all flourish on these lands. Right adjoining them are the stables of L. J. Rose, where the breed of Sultan and Alcazar, the most famous horses in the world are found. Mr. Garvey's fine band of cattle which roam free all winter long in his pastures, and never know or feel the need of housing, indicate how mild the climate is. A man on horseback could not reach the tops of the cornstalks, and the best farmers in Illinois will have to take a back seat when the yield is summed up. Let no one estimate these lands on the basis of values for Western farms. Multiply these by three, because ours produce three crops a year. Then multiply this product by two, because we have twice as good a market as there is in the west. And last of all, add large increments for the increased productiveness for each separate crop, one for the saving made of transportation in getting the stuff to market, and another, the largest of all on account of a climate which allows a man to work three times as many days in the year as he can in the west, and you will begin to get at the intrinsic value of these lands. They are offered at from $100 to $250 per acre, in small parcels, on easy terms, long time and low rate of interest. E. J. Baldwin, the owner of the string of celebrated horses which are known in all parts of the East is interested in these lands with Mr. Garvey. The Baldwin stables are in sight of the lands here described.

CHEAP LAND.

The above prices, when all factors in the problem are considered are cheap enough. But these are really among the choicest and highest priced lands offered in this section. There is an abundant supply of excellent alfalfa lands in the county to be had in parcels to suit and on the easiest of terms at from $100 to $150 per acre. One dealer says of his lands:

"They are a deep, rich, sandy loam, very easy to cultivate. They are watered perfectly by natural subirrigation, without cost and without labor. Fruits and vegetables grown with natural subirrigation are of the finest flavor and command the highest prices. Over 600 acres of orchards have been planted by the purchasers of these lands the past season and all are growing finely; these fruits consist of apples, peaches, pears, prunes, figs, plums, cherries, persimmons, raisin and table grapes, loquats, quinces, apricots, English walnuts, chestnuts and olives. Most of these fruits bear sufficiently the third year to defray expenses of cultivation, and by the fifth or sixth year return $200 to $300 profit per acre annually. These lands, under good management, will be worth $1,000 to $1,500 per acre as soon as they come into full bearing. Ten acres of these lands in bearing fruits will produce a better income than a 160-acre farm east of the Rocky Mountains. They are within ten miles of Los Angeles by rail or by fine carriage road.

These are offered at $1.65 per acre, one-fourth cash, the balance in one, two and three years, at 8 per cent. These are suitable for the growth of citrus fruit.

Another tract is offered to colony parties like this:

Price list of stock ranges and colony tracts:

Tract.	Acres.	Price.	Tract.	Acres.	Price.
A	4,860	$ 5 00	J	1,000	$12 50
B	2,781	10 00	J	7,700	6 00
C	2,360	15 00	K	5,681	6 00
D	1,851	20 00	L	7,247	15 00
E	3,225	25 00	M	2,682	25 00
F	3,465	22 00	N	7,519	5 00
G	3,891	12 00	O	11,409	5 00
H	921	8 00	P	14,848
		Total No. of acres, 81,320.

Large portions of all these tracts are suitable for all sorts of fruit production, including the orange and grape. These can be segregated and sold to settlers in the colony for $20 to $50 per acre, leaving the hill lands for grazing to others at $5 to $10 per acre. The agent of this tract says of his company: "We will sell these lands to actual settlers, who will improve and live on their lands, for one-quarter cash payment, and the balance in three annual payments. A large colony has just arrived from Chicago to settle on 1,000 acres in our valley. These colonists are so well satisfied with the location and climate and land that several of them have already made arrangements to buy more land from the company."

There are large bodies of fine land in this county still awaiting purchasers at the lowest prices known before the big boom began. They are held by large estates and are not yet offered in small subdivisions. These range at from 6,000 to 50,000 and even 100,000 acres in a body. They are to be had at from $13 to $30 per acre. They are among the best lands in Los Angeles county. They have water rights indisputable as to title, and capable of being utilized at a moderate outlay of money. These can be purchased by heavy syndicates and sold to settlers in small parcels at from $25 to $50 per acre and allow the investors to double their money.

THINGS TO THINK ABOUT.

Here are many matters for the settler to look carefully into. The other day a farmer near Anaheim wrote to the Gazette of that town like this: "When I was a boy I determined not to spend my life where I was born, in the inhospitable climate of Pennsylvania. I heard of California, where they said there was no winter. I came to San Francisco and found there was no summer at that place. I came here and settled at Placentia and found the climatic paradise I long dreamed of, but never found before." Do not be mistaken. Our climate can not be equalled on the footstool. The climate about San Francisco no more compares with ours than that of Nebraska compares with the weather in Northern California. Along the coast it is bleak, foggy, cold and trying in the extreme to weak constitutions. In the interior the winters are quite sharp, and the summers are close and sultry. The hot nights of the East with all their enervating, prostrating effects will be found everywhere in the valleys of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers.

As the climate in the northern part of the State is not so agreeable to man, neither will it permit of the same success to the farmer that he is sure of in the south. He is debarred in that section from the most profitable and fascinating of industries. He may grow alfalfa to be sure, but he cannot cut more than half as much per year from the acre as we do. He cuts it only about half as often and gets less to the cutting.

The settler will find when he gets to the northern part of the State that he can not buy land a baubee cheaper, all things considered, than he may buy it here. If he goes to the choice spots near San Jose he will pay as high a range of prices as he pays at Santa Ana or Pomona. If he goes to the region near Oakland or Alameda he will be asked about the same range of prices as rule near this city or Pasadena. He will be able to get cheap land there, but he can do the same here; and in Los Angeles he will have all the advantage of our climate and all that is derivable from a section which is gridironed with railroads, and all that to be had in a section where there is a church spire and a school-house belfrey at all times in sight. Here are colleges and libraries, a stable and highly moral community, with all the safeguards usually thrown around life and property in such places.

And, finally, here is the climate, here the soil, here the home market, here the transportation facilities, here the crops and the prices for the same, here the social, religious and educational privileges, which are not matched all together in any other spot in California, in the United States, on the American continent, or on the footstool of the Most High.

Our Climate.

A HERALD reporter yesterday took a drive down to Fruitland, which lies just outside the city limits to the southeast. Along the roadsides the grass is six to ten inches high. The orange is seen at every point hanging yellow on the trees. In the garden where the party stopped they found ripe tomatoes on the vines, ripe figs, sweet and sound on the trees, lima beans fit for the cook on the vines, green peas three or four inches above ground, potatoes just about to blossom, the roses in abundance in bloom, the heliotrope sweet and fragrant, callas just bursting into bloom, and apples hanging on the trees. The men were irrigating for alfalfa on a patch which had been cut a few days before. This is winter in the sunlit semi-tropics.

LOST ON CATALINA.

Sad Fate of a Contractor of San Pedro.

Two weeks ago last Thursday Captain Julius, of the yacht Whitewing, and Auguste Carlstrom, a contractor and builder of San Pedro, started for a hunting trip on Catalina Island. They selected as their camping ground a spot at the mouth of two ravines, and after pitching their tent Captain Julius started up one ravine and Carlstrom the other. This was the last that was seen of Carlstrom alive. Captain Julius returned to the camp, but Carlstrom did not appear. After waiting several hours Captain Julius lit a huge bonfire in the hope that Carlstrom would see it and return. Daybreak arrived, but Carlstrom did not appear and Captain Julius started out on a search for his lost companion, and for three days he wandered through the ravines shooting his rifle and calling. Finally his provisions gave out and he returned to San Pedro where he related the story. A party was immediately organized, consisting of Captain Julius, J. Harry Conlan, Robert Lightwood and Bernard Stark. These gentlemen sailed for Catalina in the yacht Whitewing and secured the services of a mountaineer named Long George who they instructed to take a trip over the mountains and meet them on the other side of the island. They arrived at the other side and searched for five days until their provisions were almost exhausted and were about to give up when Long George came into camp saying that he had found Carlstrom's body four miles up the mountain. The party then climbed the mountain and found the body in a clump of cactus, the spines of which filled the body and face of the deceased. He had evidently been dead but twelve hours, and had been wandering about delirious for want of water. His shoes were off and were about 100 feet away from where he was found, and his rifle and ammunition were gone and could not be found. There were evidences about to show that he had suffered agonies, and to make matters worse the crows had eaten out his eyes. The party decided to bury him where he was found for it was almost impossible to carry him twelve miles over the mountains to the settlement. Deceased was a native of Sweden, 40 years old. His wife and two children are in Iowa, and he owned considerable property in Oregon. He was a Mason, and was highly respected in the community in which he lived. The party returned from its search yesterday.

AN ASTONISHING CHANGE.

"My dear madam, I never saw you looking so well, and you were so poorly, too."

"Yes, doctor, Joy's Vegetable Sarsparilla is the grandest thing in the world for run-down, nervous and debilitated women. That's the secret of my appearance."

Up to a month ago Mrs. Belden, an elderly lady, living at 510 Mason street, San Francisco, was failing in health and flesh so rapidly as to seriously alarm her relatives. She now writes: "I have taken but one bottle of Joy's Vegetable Sarsparilla, but it is astonishing. I am regaining my lost flesh and have not felt as well in years."

Reward.
